Delaney 'Missing' at Jobs Probe

John Lacey Delaney, "mystery man" of the Hurley administration, cannot be found by the Legislature's sergeant-at-arms, who holds a summons for him to appear as a witness at the "gift jobs" investigation.

That was Attorney Warren Patten's statement to members of the joint legislative committee conducting the inquiry today.

Other witnesses already have labeled Delaney a "contact man" between Governor Hurley's office and the Unemployment Compensation Commission.

Delaney has a state job of his own—supervising agent for the state banking department, division of closed banks.

Report Pope Plans New Nazi Rebuff

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy, May 18 (INS)—Pope Pius will strike back at the Nazi regime in Germany with a diplomatic rebuff, it was rumored today.

Mgr. Cesare Orsenigo, the Papal Nuncio to Berlin, will not return to the Reich, according to unconfirmed reports. Mgr. Orsenigo conferred with the Pope today and, according to rumors, discussed the anti-Nazi encyclical which the Pope is reported to be preparing.

THE WEATHER

Old Sol's Halo Just Means Rain

Bostonians and thousands of other New Englanders squinted sunwards today, marvelling at a rainbow-hued halo surrounding Old Sol's bright face.

But government weathermen refused to get excited about the colorful phenomenon. G. Harold Noyes, U. S. meteorologist at Boston speaking for them.

He said:

"The halo was probably caused by refraction of the sun's rays passing through otherwise invisible particles of moisture, high in the earth's atmosphere.

"In the extreme cold of high altitudes, the moisture would be frozen into microscopic ice crystals.

"These reflect sunlight as do the facets of a jewel such as a diamond or sapphire.

"Today's spectacle can probably be interpreted prosaically as an indication of rain.

"Rain is the prediction, anyhow. There's a rain belt now extending from Washington to the Canadian Rockies."

May Ask F.D.R. Settle Pa. Row

PHILADELPHIA, May 18—Certain leaders of the triumphant Pennsylvania Democratic State Committee, which is headed by Secretary of the Commonwealth David L. Lawrence, were said in unconfirmed reports today to be considering asking President Roosevelt's mediation in the party row that split an organization which in 1934 pushed Earle into office as the first Pennsylvania Democratic Governor in 44 years.

BURBANK, Cal., May 18 (INS)—Its nine occupants, including four women and two children, dead in the charred wreckage, the $88,000 Lockheed luxury airliner which disappeared Monday was found today on a mountainside less than 50 miles from its starting point.

The plane was found by a farmer on the side of Mt. McDill, one mile north of the Mint Canyon highway.

Forest rangers, headed by Dan Barnes, Mint Canyon fire warden, confirmed the find.

Official confirmation came later from the Newhall substation of the sheriff's office which received word that their men had reached the scene.

Pennsy Vote Rebuffs CIO

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

PITTSBURGH, May 18 (INS)—Pennsylvania's rough-house primary, featuring bitter quarrels in both parties, resulted today in the Democrats rebuffing a CIO attempt to muscle into power, and the Republicans restoring leadership to the conservative, old guard wing of the party.

On the basis of unofficial but fairly complete returns, it appeared the results were these:

The Democratic state organization succeeded in nominating Charles A. Jones, Pittsburgh lawyer, for governor, over Thomas Kennedy, the John L. Lewis-Joe Guffey candidate, who was given the last-minute blessing of National Chairman James A. Farley. The margin of Jones' victory, however, was none too comfortable.

Judge Arthur H. James, candidate of the Philadelphia old guard, overwhelmingly defeated ex-Governor Pinchot for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

BIG EARLE MARGIN

Senator James J. Davis, a member off the Harding, Coolidge and Hoover cabinets, eased out a renomination over the Republican leaders' candidate, G. Mason Owlett, national committeeman.

With the vote three-quarters tabulated, there was little to choose numerically between the opposing parties. The Democrats had in excess of 1,000,000 votes and the Republicans had 1,066,000.

This ran about according to expectations. Each party had prediction registration of slightly in excess of 2,000,000.

Earle's victory on the Democratic side and James' on the Republican side were by wide margins, but the others were much closer. Up to daybreak no one except Pinchot had done any conceding. He tossed in the sponge after the Philadelphia vote had sent Judge James westward toward the Alleghenies with a majority in excess of 210,000.

It now becomes the task of both parties to try to heal up the wounds of this unprecedented primary fight, and in this the Democrats face infinitely the more difficult job. The Republican fight was warm, but the Democratic battle was red-hot, with the opposing factions throwing around charges of high crimes and misdemeanors, to say nothing of graft, bribery and corruption.

TO SEEK HARMONY

It was reported today that Chairman Farley will shortly endeavor to arrange a harmony meeting to try to get them all back under the same tent again for November. He will have to wait a time, however, for tempers to cool. They are that hot now.

Farley emerges from his unusual excursion into a Democratic family row with his prestige as a master-mind somewhat dimmed, but with the satisfaction—or the hope, at least—of having retained for the Democratic party the allegiance of John L. Lewis and his CIO. That may be an important factor, looking ahead to the oncoming November elections and still further ahead to 1940.

GUFFEY FACES TEST

Glum and uncommunicative, Senator Joe Guffey, who has long relished the title of Pennsylvania's No. 1 Democrat, returned to Washington early today. He would not concede defeat, although he did offer to bet that Jones' victory over Kennedy would not exceed 125,000.

It may take some time to unravel just who's who in Pennsylvania Democracy as a result of this primary, but it would appear that Guffey's cherished titular leadership is in dire jeopardy, not withstanding that he still will have the dispensation of federal patronage. But the state patronage—nearly 30,000 jobs—will be in other hands after November—if the Democrats win.

Green Hails Union Hand In Victory

By GEORGE DURNO

WASHINGTON, May 18 (INS)—Defeat of the "CIO puppets" in the Democratic and Republican primaries in Pennsylvania, was hailed today by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, as a thorough-going repudiation of "Dictator" John L. Lewis.

In a jubilant statement stressing the defeat of "every CIO candidate," Green said:

GREEN HAPPY

"The vote must be interpreted as an expression of resentment by the citizens of Pennsylvania against the attempt of the CIO dictator, John L. Lewis, to seize political control of the State.

"The Democratic voters also repudiated the eleventh hour attempt of Chairman Farley of the Democratic National Committee to deliver political control of the State to Lewis, a life-long Republican, who supported Presidents Harding, Coolidge and Hoover and never voted a straight Democratic ticket in his life."

Green, who was ousted by Lewis' United Mine Workers of America, was particularly exuberant over voting in the mining sections of the Keystone State. He said:

". . . The returns showed that the mine workers and their friends asserted their independence when they were accorded an opportunity to vote by secret ballot. They repudiated CIO leadership."

"PARADE STARTS"

Rep. Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts, assistant Republican leader of the House, sounded G. O. P. sentiments when he said:

"The most significant thing about the Pennsylvania primaries was the polling of many more Republican votes than Democratic despite the hot Democratic contest and the lavish spending of state and federal funds.

"The November parade started yesterday in the Keystone State."

Penn. Vote

PHILADELPHIA, May 18 (AP)—Returns in Pennsylvania Statewide primary gave:

Democratic U. S. Senator (7027 of 8075 districts)—Earle, 619,418; Wilson, 283,725.

Democratic Governor (7080 districts)—Jones, 537,039; Kennedy, 440,829; Margiotti, 151,738.

Nazi Spy Ring Witness for U.S. Vanishes

Copyright, 1938, by International News Service.

PARIS, May 18 (INS)—An amazing story of the sudden departure of Dr. Ignatz Griebl, New York physician and star witness of the United States government in its inquiry into the far-flung Nazi spy ring, now under federal grand jury investigation at New York, was bared here today.

HELD CAPTIVE?—Dr. Ignatz Griebl, key witness in U. S. probe of Nazi spying, believed held by German agents. He is shown with wife.

The French Surete of police attempted to find the physician when the German liner Bremen, on which he sailed from the United States, docked at Cherbourg. They were ordered off the ship by the Bremen's captain.

A short time later the vessel weighed anchor and, with Dr. Griebl still aboard, headed for Hamburg, Germany.

Griebl was formerly an officer in the German military intelligence service. He was a captain in the German artillery service during the World War. He had been a naturalized American citizen for 15 years.

The physician's name came into the investigation of the Nazi spy ring by G-men when they arrested four persons in New York on February 26, last, including a woman, Johanna Hoffman, a hair dresser on the S.S. Europa.

The physician was under questioning for weeks by G-men. It is almost entirely on the information he supplied that the United States government hoped to obtain indictments from the presently sitting Federal grand jury in New York against 17 persons.

Police here said American authorities discovered the star witness had vanished May 11.

Clues quickly uncovered indicated Griebl had either boarded or been spirited away by Nazi agents on the S.S. Bremen, which sailed May 11 from New York.

The French Surete first learned of the case when U. S. Ambassador William C. Bullitt received an urgent telephone call from the American State Department.

The ambassador was instructed to contact the French police and arrange with them to see the physician at Cherbourg. Griebl was then to be asked to return to the United States.

'Handwriting on Wall'–Hamilton

WASHINGTON, May 18 (AP)—John D. M. Hamilton, Republican National Committee chairman, said today Pennsylvania primary results pointed to "certain victory" in November and represented "the handwriting on the wall for the New Deal and all its radical and crack-brain allies."

The chairman said defeat of "the CIO-Farley candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination" repudiated "Farleyism" and "Roosevelt interference in primary contests."

A Beautiful Girl's Broken Heart!

Pens Note, Shoots Self, Dies Kissing Betrothal Ring

CHICAGO, May 18 (INS)—His girl sent Frank M. Weaver's fraternity pin back today along with a note telling why she killed herself.

She said she had a broken heart.

The young woman, Mrs. Gretchen Puetz Bowers, 21-year-old artist's model, dressed up in her best evening gown as if for a date last night and then fired a bullet in her side.

She died several hours later in a hospital, kissing a diamond ring on her engagement finger and murmuring:

"Tell Toney to come and see me."

"Toney" Weaver is a 28-year-old graduate of the University of Wisconsin. The four-page note to him concluded:

". . . You saw fit to put an end to our love, and for me it is truly the end.

"I'm not being dramatic or impulsive. As you know I've not considered a life without you; it wouldn't be life . . .

"You see, darling, I do know I was meant to be yours. I have been and always shall be . . .

"Your fraternity pin, you will, of course, want and shall have. But about the ring, I feel differently. Women are very sentimental about the ring with which they are married to the man they love above all else. You said God married us, remember? And I'm sure He did; so may the ring be left on my hand, please.

"I won't say 'good-bye'—I never have, and couldn't, so, my dearest, 'til we meet again.

It was signed:

"Gretchen."

Church Group Condemns 'Isms'

Resolutions condemning both Fascism and Communism were adopted by the Congregational Church conference in Dedham today.

"We abhor the doctrines of fascism and communism, and encourage all citizens of this republic of free people to hold to the principles of majority rule and minority rights in contradistinction to all foreign propaganda," the resolution reads.

Also adopted was a resolution "reaffirming" the conference's "faith in the inegrity of its appointed and elected officers."

REPLY TO BABSON

This, and a statement by the Rev. William F. Frazier that any investigation of the salaries or activities of the church's board of home missions in New York would be "as welcome as the flowers in May," was the only recognition given to the charges voiced yesterday by Roger W. Babson.

Babson, whose charges against the national officers yesterday split the conference wide open, today was not mentioned by name.

ABC UNDER FIRE

In speeches on the floor of the conference, the administration of the Alcoholic Beverage Commission was called "corrupt," and delegates were asked to contact their Senators and Representativesin the legislature to support measures to clip its powers.

Governor Hurley asked the Congress today to submit any charges regarding the ABC to his secretary, Paul Ryan, who "will transmit them to proper legal authorities."

Doctors O.K. Quins

By GRACE TROY

International News Service Staff Correspondent

NORTH BAY, Ont., May 18—When they were born, everyone wondered if they would live. During their infancy there still were those who predicted they never would survive. But today, with their fourth birthday almost here, the five little Dionne darlings came through with high ratings a rigorous physical examination by three distinguished specialists.

For the periodic examination, Dr. Alan Brown, professor of pediatrics at the University of Toronto and physician-in-chief of Toronto Hospital for Children; Dr. C. E. Hill, one of Toronto's best-known eye specialists, and Dr. William A. Dafoe of Toronto University faculty came to North Bay. Dr. Dafoe is a brother of Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, personal physician to the quins.

Wrote Dr. Brown: "Today I examined carefully the Dionne quintuplets and find their physical growth is excellent. Their muscular and bone growth is perfect. All their organs appear normal.

EYES IMPROVE

"When I last saw them in January, till now, there has been a great improvement in progress. I think the progress during this interval has surpassed other periods of growth. They appear to me to be perfectly normal children in respect to physical development. Their diets are normal containing all essential elements necessary for growth."

Dr. Hill's report read: "The general appearance of the eyes shows improvement. The interior of the eyes is normal in all respects. No damage to the eyes by photography. None of the children requires glasses at present and may never require lenses."

Dr. William Dafoe did not make a formal report but told his brother he was satisfied with the youngsters' health and general development.

A Nut's a Nut
But These Squirrels Seem Nutty!

By EDDY GILMORE

WASHINGTON, May 18 (AP)—This may sound like a nutty story, but something has happened to the economic outlook of the White House squirrels—they are getting timid about taking handouts.

For years one of the chief tricks of capital guides has been showing sight-seeing customers how to make the tree dwellers of the executive mansion eat out of their hands.

Brazenly the squirrels have been coming forward and not only eating from the hand, but recklesaly going into pockets for free peanuts.

But—there's been a sudden change of policy.

This spring the capital curtails are keeping their distance, and there are reports of disdainful food spurning.

There are three theories as to what has taken place.

The National Parks Service—denying any planned immigration of squirrels to the White House grounds—says that last winter was mild, and the squirrels probably aren't as hungry as usual.

Guides say a new generation of squirrels has arrived. They contend many of the old gray fellows are missing and that a lot of sassy brown ones have moved in.

Still another group contends that when the parks service gave the White House squirrels new houses last fall, the housing program has made them go high hat.

House Passes State Budget

In fast time today, the House, without debate, passed to be engrossed the new $71,715,118 state budget of the Ways and Means Committee.

Also without debate, it passed to be engrossed the bill providing for payment of $8,000,000 by the state to cities and towns for highway purposes, out of the gasoline tax funds.

The House refused, however, to adopt an amendment offered by Representative John Craven to increase the appropriation for the insurance department.

AMENDMENT REFUSED

It adopted a motion by Representative Christian A. Herter, Boston, to suspend the rules so that the budget could go to the Senate today.

This afternoon in the Senate, however, a bit of delay came when an attempt to suspend the rules failed and the budget was sent to the Senate ways and means committee.

It is probable that the budget will emerge from committee tomorrow for Senate action.

SENATE O. K. SEEN

Senator Joseph E. Cotton of Lexington, Republican leader in that branch, was in the House when the action was taken there and expressed the opinion that the Senate would act favorably upon both the budget and the bill for distribution of the $8,000,000.

What Governor Hurley will do with the budget bill when it reaches him remained in doubt, although it was indicated that the margin would not be sufficient to protect it from possible veto.

As the budget now stands, it differs from that of Governor Hurley largely in the matter of bookkeeping.

Under the plan of the ways and means committee, $8,000,000 will be distributed to cities and towns for highway construction under local jurisdiction. The Hurley measure provided highway work under the authority of the state department of public works.

New Witness For Bartolini

A mystery witness, represented as able to throw new light on the murder of Mrs. Grayce Asquith of Weymouth, was scheduled to appear before the Norfolk grand jury today in an 11th hour move to save Oscar Bartolini, Quincy chef convicted of the slaying.

Defense Attorney George Lourie said his new witness would tell his story at Dedham court later today.

On the basis of testimony which he expected the mystery witness to give, Lourie was prepared to ask a new trial for Bartolini.

At the same time, today, District Attorney Edmund R. Dewing, original prosecutor in the Bartolini case, said he would ask the court to revoke a stay of sentence given Bartolini pending result of the latter's supreme court appeal.

The appeal was denied.

Revocation of the stay, if granted, will doom Bartolini to execution within a 30-day period.

found by Walter Peterson, a farmer, who said he peered into the plane and counted seven dead bodies. The plane was burned."

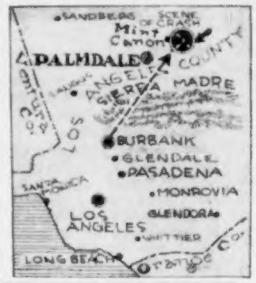
Officers said they believed the other two bodies would be found when the wreckage is investigated.

Reports received here indicated the plane, apparently lost in fog which blanketed this whole area Monday afternoon, crashed into the mountainside northeast of Burbank and burned not more than 30 minutes after it took off from Burbank field here.

The giant transport was not on a regular beamed passenger route but was being ferried to St. Paul, Minn., to be delivered to Northwest Airlines. All of the persons aboard were either employes or relatives of Lockheed and Northwest officials.

Discovery of the wreckage was made shortly after three planes had gone aloft in the murky dawn to make another aerial survey.

Crews immediately left for the scene from the Mojave desert towns of Lancaster, Newhall and Saugus. Many of the 500 weary CCC and Lockheed employes, who had been conducting an extensive ground search, concentrated in the area to aid. Officials said it would be several hours before they could reach the wreckage.



Police Rule Chicago Relief Crisis

Guard Closed Stations Against Pickets

CHICAGO, May 18 (AP)—Police details guarded Chicago's relief stations against demonstrations today after the 23 outlets for aid to 93,000 families were closed for lack of funds.

Picketing of all stations and the occupation of three by demonstrators were the first repercussions of the formal suspension of regular service.

LEGISLATURE TO MEET

State officials prepared for a special session of the Legislature Friday night to head off the relief crisis.

Police squads cleared demonstrators, including a score of unemployed sailors, from three relief stations last night without incident. A heavy rainfall routed picket lines massed at stations by the Illinois Workers Alliance.

An estimated 34,000 families, or about 91,000 persons, received no May relief checks. Provision was made to supply them with foodstuffs from the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation until June 1.

Relief families of four were allotted two pounds of dried beans, four pounds of butter, 12 pounds of cabbage, eight stalks of celery, 30 pounds of oranges and two pounds of rice. Arrangements were made to supply milk in limited quantity to children.

Chicago's relief fund deficiency was estimated at $1,500,000 a month.

A sub-committee met in relief headquarters for a general investigation of relief administration here; a second met in City Hall to probe city finances, and a third started an investigation of relief cases, picked at random from the city's files.

The sitdowners in Council Chamber, fed more or less regularly by workers' organizations, slept or played cards following a noisy demonstration in which CIO and Workers' Alliance leaders spoke, and skits satirizing the State administration and attacking Governor Davey were presented.

Curley Denies Bandit Ferrara His Protege

Former Governor Curley today emphatically denied that he had anything to do with the securing of a state job by Frank Ferrara, sentenced to eight to 10 years for armed robbery, and charged that former Commissioner of Agriculture Howard H. Murphy put him in his department without any request from the then Governor.

Curley at first dismissed remarks that Ferrara had been specially favored as "too ridiculous" but he replied sharply to Murphy today when he learned the latter charged Ferrara had been recommended by the governor's office.

Curley said:

"I never had anything to do with Ferrara's job during my administration. I did not appoint him. Murphy did and I was responsible for his discharge because of wasteful extravagance with State money.

"It was charged that Ferrara and Murphy often took pleasure trips to Hyannis and other parts of the Cape, with the State paying for it."

Ferrara worked in the division of dairying from October, 1936, to January, 1937. Murphy said he was sent to his department on the Governor's "okay."

Ferrara and John L. Barr, a paroled lifer, were sentenced for a daylight robbery in Newton.

Star Says She's Glamour Girl Now

In an action taken in Los Angeles Superior Court, Miss Raye, film comedienne and singer, sought an injunction against the magazine asking that the picture in question, a photograph showing her and a chimpanzee with their mouths wide open, not be published.

"I am sorry Martha Raye doesn't like the picture," commented Pope, "but we are going to print it anyway.

SAYS STARS SPOILED

"Movie stars are spoiled and they've got to learn that newspapers and magazines cannot be expected to print only the glamour stories their press agents manufacture."

Miss Raye contended she no longer belongs to the "wide mouth" film school, but has graduated to the "shapely legs" class.

Miss Raye declares the picture was made more than two years ago at a time she was featured in roles entirely different from the ones in which she now appears.

NOW "GLAMOUR GIRL"

Since the photograph was taken, Miss Raye's physical attributes and singing voice have undergone an essential change so as to permit her to appear in the "higher spheres of culture and dramatic art," the complaint said.

Instead of being billed as a wide-mouthed comedian, Miss Raye is now being selected to portray glamorous roles, made possible by her comeliness and grace, ascribed to the "shapeliness and elegance of her legs," according to the complaint.

Elevator Drops In N. Y., 9 Hurt

NEW YORK, May 18 (AP)—Nine persons were injured today when an elevator at the Queens Borough Hall in Long Island City fell three floors.

Only two of the eleven passengers in the cage escaped injury. St. John's Hospital officials said none of the victims was seriously hurt.

Elect Father Fox Oblate Delegate

LOWELL, Mass., May 28 (AP)—The provincial chapter of the Oblate Order for the first American province today elected the Rev. Edward J. Fox, O.M.I., pastor of the Sacred Heart Church, as delegate to the general chapter of the order in Rome, September 8.

Easy 'Purchase' Of Dope Told By U. S. Agent

Simple technique by which a stranger could allegedly buy dope in Boston while a so-called $2,000,000 intercity narcotic ring was operating was described in United States District Court today.

Witness who told of having gone dope-shopping was Federal Agent Stephen Ciperano of Boston.

He testified against Charles McKay of Boston, one of seven defendants on trial for alleged conspiracy to violate anti-narcotic statutes.

Soon after Ciperano's testimony, government and defense both rested today, and Judge Hugh D. McLellan excused the jury, pending preparation of his charge.

Agent Ciperano testified that he arrested McKay after the latter had promised to sell him an ounce of heroin.

After hearing Judge McLellan's charge, the federal jury will retire to determine guilt or innocence of remaining "dope trial" defendants, including six men and one woman, the latter a 33-year-old Malden mother of several children.

The seven present defendants are Max Chipman of Boston and New York; George Turner, allas Tubin, of Boston; Irving Yerkes of Boston, Joseph McGinnis of Jamaica Plain, Reggie Colton of the South End, Charles McKay of Boston and Mrs. Eugenia Savastano of Malden.

Of 15 defendants originally indicted in the "dope ring" probe, six entered guilty pleas, one was found not guilty by a directed verdict and one was freed by a nol pros.

The six who pleaded guilty and are awaiting sentence include Jack Silver of New York; Michael and Rose McMahon of Temple street, West End; Arthur J. O'Neil, South End; Hazel Adamson, Watertown, and Morris Blitzer of New York.

NEW YORK, May 18 (AP)—American Telephone & Telegraph Co. directors today voted the usual quarterly dividend of $2.25 a share on capital stock, payable July 15 to stock of record June 15. The dividend involves a distribution of about $42,000,000 among the shareholders.

2 Die, 8 Hurt As Autos Run Wild in N. E.

In less than 30 hours, automobiles running wild throughout New England today killed two persons and injured eight others.

At Pittsfield, Harold F. Clement, 33, was on the danger list at St. Luke's Hospital and his 21-year-old companion, Miss Shirley MacLean, was dead after her car smashed into concrete posts, bounded down a 65-foot embankment in West Stockbridge. The accident occurred last night.

BABY KILLED

At Bailey's Crossing, Newbury, N. H., an automobile failed to "beat" a gasoline motor train. Result: A year-old baby was dead, three other children and two women critically injured.

Injured were the dead child's mother, Mrs. Martha Blake, 30, and Mrs. John Gillingham, 58, both of Newbury, and three other Blake children ranging in ages up to six years.

At City Hospital little hope was held for the recovery of Miss Josephine Walton, 62, of Beacon street, Brookline, struck by a speeding fire engine in Scollay square.

Harry Julian, 45, of Adams street, Dorchester, was in the same hospital with a broken jaw when his automobile struck a tree near Columbia circle.

Roxbury Fire Loss $50,000

Two buildings belonging to the Highland Ice and Fuel Company, on Gardner street, West Roxbury, were a mass of smouldering ruins today after fire swept the plant and threatened to explode 36,000 gallons of range and fuel oil in four elevated tanks.

Loss was estimated at over $50,000.

Fanned by a strong wind, the blaze engulfed the two main buildings of the company within a few minutes, ignited three other smaller buildings which were quickly extinguished and threatened to fire surrounding homes. Nearby residents were ordered from their houses when it was feared the oil tanks would explode.

Sinus Influenced By Shape of Skull

By GOBIND BEHARI LAL
International News Service Science Editor
(Copyright 1938)

A startling discovery that the shape of the skull markedly influences the occurrence of sinus and other nasal infections has been made by four Boston physicians, it was learned today.

Drs. George Levene, Leighton F. Johnson, Robert M. Lowman and Egan G. Wissing, of the Evans clinic, Massachusetts Memorial Hospital, found this hitherto unrecognized relation between the shape of the skull and nose and cranial infections.

The gist of their scientific report, which will be published in "Endocrinology," leading American scientific journal of the science of the ductless glands, is:

"The incidence of sinus infections is greater in those having evidence of pituitary gland disorders than it is in people with normal skulls.

"Our studies indicate the necessity of considering skull types and structures in the treatment of the para-nasal sinuses and mastoids."

The Boston physicians found that the shape of the skull was governed by the condition of the interior pituitary gland. Hence, it was this gland that, through influencing skull shape, determined one's susceptibility to such diseases as sinus infection.

Cardenas Tours Oil Fields

MEXICO CITY, May 18 (AP)—President Cardenas started a tour of expropriated American and British oil properties today, and his itinerary included a stop at San Luis Potosi, stronghold of the Agrarian leader, General Saturnino Cedillo.

Cedillo, Cardenas' political opponent and central figure of this week's rumors of planned rebellion, has resigned from the army, thereby avoiding serving a military commission in Michoacan, Cardenas' home state.

A strong garrison of troops was in San Luis, to greet Cardenas' special train. With machine-gun nests atop public buildings, they have been patrolling the city since Sunday.

Turf Spongers, Fixers Flee Hub, Abandon Auto

Exposed by the Boston Evening American a group of race horse spongers and another of narcotic horse-fixers had fled Boston today, leaving one of their out-of-state cars in the hands of authorities.

Through half-world channels, word spread also that passers of counterfeit $20 bills whose source has baffled G-Men for four years, also had decided to leave town as a result of the Evening American disclosures.

DOWNS GUARD RELAXES

As a result of the flights, officials at Suffolk Downs, where special guards had been posted, particularly in the stables, breathed easier.

The abrupt departure of the race horse spongers and dopers relieved a feared duplication of conditions that existed at winter tracks this year, particularly in Maryland, where a number of horses were found to have been "doctored" by race-fixers.

Information that the fixers were in town, one group with an Iowa-licensed car and the other with a machine carrying Florida plates, was published yesterday in the Boston Evening American.

LEAVE AUTO

Less than half a dozen hours later, the fixers were hastening for fields afar, leaving one of the machines behind them.

Information regarding the spongers and narcotic fixers was given G-men by a race track tout under arrest here for another crime.

He also furnished descriptions of a group up here to pass more of the counterfeit, 1934 series, Federal Reserve Bank notes.

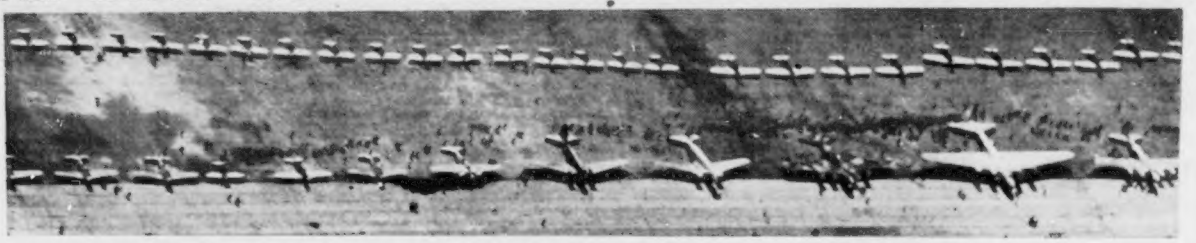
War Birds 'Rest' After Their Battle Amid the Skies



Unusual Aerial View of Bombing and Pursuit Planes Grounded at Mitchel Field

Army Says 'Games' Prove Planes Best

Giant transport planes today began a series of transcontinental flights, carrying back to home bases U. S. army air corps personnel assigned to headquarters at Westfield during sky and sea war games just concluded.

Army pilots, officers and ground crews, victorious in repelling a mythical enemy's invasion of New England and the North Atlantic seaboard, received high praise from official sources, as they returned to peace-time footing.

The War Department went on record today as satisfied that the Army air force will be America's "front line defense" if this nation is ever attacked by a coalition of enemy powers striking at the Atlantic coastline.

The military high command went further, today, in asserting that the recent war games here have demonstrated that our giant bombers and "flying fortresses" can defeat and drive off or annihilate any enemy attempting to invade New England and the eastern seaboard under circumstances at present conceivable.

France Recruits 70,000 Troops In Colonies

PARIS, May 18 (INS)—How France is beginning to draw upon her Colonial reservoirs of man-power to augment her military power was revealed officially today with disclosures of recruiting activities in French possessions abroad.

Acting swiftly to meet Europe's unsettled conditions by strengthening France's armed strength, the government of Premier Edouard Daladier ordered that 20,000 new troops be recruited in French Indo-China and 50,000 in French Equatorial and Occidental Africa.

According to the government's plan, these forces would be available to defend the colonies if regular French troops are called home to the Rhine frontier in the event of a European war.

Italians Plan War Maneuvers in Africa

ROME, May 18 (AP)—Italy's north African troops will soon conduct maneuvers in western Libya, the Fascist press disclosed today.

Western Libya is contiguous to Tunisia, where French military leaders were reported recruiting additional native troops.

These developments became known as negotiations between France and Italy for an agreement on their controversal problems reached an apparent stalemate. The French still expressed optimism that an understanding eventually would be obtained.

A dispatch from Tripoli, about 100 miles from the Tunisian frontier, said the Cirene division arrived there en route to maneuvers after what was described as an "admirable rapid march" along the coast from eastern Libya.

Poland in New Lithuania Clash

KAUNAS, Lithuania, May 18 (AP)—Indications of new friction between Poland and Lithuania appeared today in a report that Poland had protested retention in the Lithuanian constitution of a clause referring to Wilno as the "lawful capital of Lithuania."

A new constitution promulgated May 12 retained the clause from the old constitution. (Wilno, formerly Vilna, was taken by Poland in 1920).

Lithuania recently renewed diplomatic relations with Poland, broken off 20 years ago, in compliance with a Polish ultimatum, backed by concentration of troops at the Lithuanian frontier.

School Greeting Banned by Nazis

VIENNA, May 18 (AP)—Loyal Austrian schoolchildren were forbidden by decree today to continue greeting their teachers with the proverbial Austrian "kiss your hand."

It was explained such civility was detested in a national Socialist state.

Princess Spurns Her Native U. S.

NEW YORK, May 18 (AP)—The Daily News said today that the Princess Alexander of Thurn and Taxis, the former Ella Walker of Detroit, had kept a mysterious vow never to set foot on American soil again by staying in her locked cabin when the liner Empress of Britain made a 24-hour stopover here on a world cruise.

The thrice-married daughter of Franklin H. Walker, son of the founder of a distilling firm, refused to see visitors, while her sons, the Princes Raymond, 31, and Louis, 30, went ashore for a "whale of a time."

The News said the princess, 62, and a resident of Lake Como, Italy, the home of her last husband who died last year, made a vow never to return to this country when her father's estate was settled.

The Princess divorced James Hazen Hyde, millionaire insurance broker, in 1932, and had previously divorced Count Matuschka, an officer in the Kaiser's personal bodyguard, in 1926.

She sailed for Southampton, England, yesterday.

Witness Collapses In Federal Court

Oscar Hillman of Attleboro collapsed as he was about to take the witness stand in a civil case before Judge George C. Sweeney in federal court today. Later he was taken to a hospital.

The case was a suit by Duncan Greenhalge of Providence against Deputy Sheriff John W. Hedges of Attleboro. Greenhalge charges Hedges with seizing $3000 worth of merchandise on a writ that called for only $100.

Hotel Fire Death Toll Rises to 33

ATLANTA, Ga., May 18 (INS)—Discovery of four additional bodies today increased to 33 the known death list of victims from the fire which destroyed the Terminal Hotel here early Monday morning.

Chinese Stem Jap Advance On Suchow

SHANGHAI, May 18 (AP)—Desperate Chinese resistance held Japanese assault units well away from the walls of battered, strategic Suchow tonight while Chinese reported other Japanese forces in the Tangshan sector, 50 miles west of Suchow, had been thrown back in a significant action.

A Chinese communique said the defenders of the vital Lunghai railway had launched a counteroffensive south of Tangshan and driven a Japanese column there almost back to Yungcheng, in Honan province.

(In Hankow a Chinese army spokesman declared this drive had "broken the spearhead of the Japanese advance toward the Lunghai railway from the south." He asserted Chinese lines still were "fundamentally unbroken" and Chinese "morale remains excellent.")

Japanese artillery continued to shell Suchow's west wall and gates, but indications increased that capture of the city, nerve center of the far-flung central China battlefront, was proving more difficult than previous jubilant Japanese reports had predicted.

Jap Atrocities In Amoy Charge

LONDON, May 18 (INS)—That Japanese troops turned machine guns on Chinese women and children and executed prisoners wholesale in the recent capture of Amoy was virtually confirmed in the House of Commons today.

Speaking for the government in reply to a question, Richard Butler, foreign under-secretary, said Great Britain "cannot too strongly deplore and condemn such a violation of the League convention," which provides for the protection of civilians in war areas.

The questioner asked if the government had any information "concerning the alleged Japanese machine-gunning of Chinese women and children and wholesale execution of prisoners" at Amoy.

Order Index Dip Less Than Seasonal

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

The latest bit of cheer on New England industrial trends is supplied by the Associated Industries of Massachusetts' order index. A less than seasonal decline is shown for the month of April in comparison with indicated volume for March.

The expected pattern for the year's fourth month is one of sharp decline. The average loss is 12 per cent over a period of years. The reported decline, therefore, of 8.4 per cent actually may be interpreted as a small gain.

On such an indicated gain basis April makes the third consecutive month in which improvement was shown. Thus largely offsetting any disappointment felt because the index only stands at 60 per cent of the figure for a year ago.

ENGLISH MARKET

The intermediate uptrend recently in force in the principal English market—London—not only was terminated in abrupt fashion but has been followed by a surprising break into new low ground by the rails. It is a more or less logical follow up to reports of dwindling trade and political unrest.

* * *

Our interest is self centered in that we must consider possible repercussions from such a foreign decline. To begin with, if it becomes any worse it is logical that the English will not only lose whatever small interest they have here but may liquidate American securities to protect home holdings.

* * *

STOCK MARKET PUZZLE

Largely because of its meandering character, the stock market is presenting something of a puzzle to traders. We think this due to the small volume of trading. Actually it has done about what was expected of it. Personally our downside limit was exceeded but not by enough to become perplexed. The following rally has begun and it will be no less of a test if volume is absent.

* * *

What we want or would like to see is an attempt on big volume by the industrial average to overcome recent upside resistance. But if it must come on small volume we say let it. Instead of detracting from forecasting value failure would be the more conclusive.

Under the same conditions a break through would probably mean a smaller rally than expected. Stop loss orders belong under yesterday's lows on stocks bought in line with ideas here.

Early Rally Halted

After quiet selling stemmed an early upturn, the market settled into a narrow, mixed price range today.

Mere Smile Won't End Recession

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University

NEW YORK, May 18—Recently there has been considerable talk about "bearish sentiment." As is usual when a depression is well along, some people conceive the happy thought that if everybody would just smile, business would be good.

A day or two ago, I saw a statement to the effect that there should be a "moratorium on economic discussions." The idea seemed to be that if the economic situation is discussed, it must be in an unfavorable light. Therefore, mum's the word!

There has even been something about "the professional pessimist," which is a very old phrase. (probably it is as old as depressions.)

But when we get right down to brass tacks, what do these anti-pessimists want? Do they want to fool themselves, or others? I suspect that each has something to sell, and that each wants all his prospective customers to be bullish and buy his wares.

The plain fact is that there never has been and never will be a sound and sustained recovery from a bad depression like this, without some readjustments that are more or less painful.

To be sound, the recovery must start with the inflation of the preceding boom deflated, and the frozen credit liquidated. Excessive inventories have to be reduced.

Above all, it is necessary that maladjustments in prices be corrected, so that buying and selling can be restored to normal volume. When some goods are "too high" and others are "too low," it is useless to urge that business try to be as usual.

When wages, considered as the price of labor, are as high as in boom times, while interest, considered as the price of capital services, is very low, how can the business team pull together?

* * *

For example, just think of the months during which the copper market has been held at 10 cents a pound, while the surplus stocks of the metal have piled mountain high. Has that confidence in the market not been too much on one side?

Does the fact that steel prices are maintained in order to pay high wages to less than half the laborers who are normally employed in the steel industry, look bullish to you? And does the argument that even if the price of steel were cut there would not be much buying, make the situation look any better?

* * *

My proposal is that instead of stopping economic talk we practice sound economic policies. Then economic talk will seem pleasant, for business will be pleasant, for business will be profitable and give full employment to the only kind of labor that is worth while—labor that is really productive.

In four days there were more than 60 telephone calls from the Statler Hotel, some to distant states, and all paid for by Edmund L. Dolan, it was testified today in the Superior Court contempt trial.

In just one day there were 19 telephone calls from the Statler Hotel, one to Chicago, and all paid for by former City Treasurer Edmund L. Dolan, it was testified today in the Superior Court contempt trial.

Dolan and J. Walter Quinn, Harold Simpson and Robert E. Dinsmore are on trial on contempt of court charges resulting from alleged attempts to corrupt jurors in a panel for trial of Dolan, Quinn and Edward J. Supple on larceny charges.

Supple is not involved in the present contempt trial.

On the witness stand today was Mrs. Ann Ferguson of Brookline, cashier at the Statler, where Dolan, it earlier was testified, was first registered for the suite numbered 1465-67, then shifted to 1400-02.

LIST 19 CALLS

She testified that Dolan paid for telephone calls made from these suites while they were occupied for several days in April.

She listed 19 of these calls on one day, April 12, as follows:

One to Mansfield exchange, Chicago; two Capitol numbers; one Hubbard number called twice; two Highlands numbers, each called twice; one Liberty number called twice; two Commonwealth numbers, one Talbot, one Garrison, called twice; two Lafayette and one Stadium.

On April 15, there was a call to the Jackson exchange, Lynn, from the suite, the witness said, and on April 16 a call to Jacksonville, Fla., these also being paid for by Dolan.

None of the subscribers to these numbers was identified in court.

WAITERS TESTIFY

Paul T. Foley, hotel office manager, testified yesterday that the suite was hired by a man named David Rice in behalf of Dolan and that bills were paid by Dolan. Several waiters testified to serving Dolan and others in the suite and accountants told of conferring with Dolan, Quinn and Simpson in the rooms.

It was testified that at the time the suite was hired Rice requested the hotel give out no information about the rooms. The defense indicated its stand is that the suite was taken to prepare a defense against the state in the trial of Dolan, Quinn and Supple.

Coach at Job Hearing

FRANCIS J. McCREHAN LAURENCE P. HARRINGTON

TWO JOBS TOLD—Francis J. McCrehan, baseball coach at Boston College, appears at "gift jobs" investigation with Laurence P. Harrington, executive secretary of the Unemployment Compensation Commission. McCrehan admitted he coached 15 days before leaving commission's payroll, but said he had Harrington's approval.

Delaney Away, Jobs Probers Are Told

geant-at-arms went looking for him, Attorney Patten stated, other officials at the state banking department said Delaney was "out of town" on a "tour" of closed banks.

They did not know what banks Delaney was visiting, nor where he could be found, Attorney Patten related.

In Delaney's absence, the legislative committee today called two other witnesses—

Francis J. McCrehan, baseball coach at Boston College, who, until March 31, had a job as head administrative clerk at the Unemployment Compensation Commission.

Robert Fuchs, 26-year-old son of former Judge Emil Fuchs, chairman of the commission.

Young Fuchs, it was brought out, for 14 months was a $36-a-week clerk in the Attorney-General's office, now has a $3000-a-year job as regional supervisor for his father's commission.

Ex-Judge Fuchs, one-time president of the Boston Braves, himself receives a salary of $6500 a year as chairman of the commission.

COACHED, WORRED LATE

Attorney Patten questioned McCrehan concerning his baseball coaching activities, and McCrehan said that for 15 days before he severed his connection with the commission he spent afternoons coaching at Boston College.

He returned to the commission's offices afterward, however, he insisted, and, he said, sometimes worked until as late as 1 a. m.

Laurence P. Harrington, executive secretary of the commission, who, McCrehan said, is "a personal friend," gave him permission to spend his afternoons coaching baseball, McCrehan testified.

Patten then produced records to show that on March 29 McCrehan was recommended for promotion. He asked McCrehan why, if he had told Harrington he was going to resign, this promotion was recommended.

"I don't know anything about it," McCrehan replied. "It was done without my knowledge."

Robert Fuchs, when he was called to the stand, insisted his father had nothing to do with his obtaining his $3000-a-year job with the commission. Indeed, he testified, his father objected to his going to work for the commission.

Trio Linked In Revere Beano Probe

Alleged collaboration of two wealthy Revere business men and a racketeering New England "beano boss" in taking $100,000 a year form beano game profits in Revere and other nearby cities drew attention of Attorney-General Paul A. Dever's special investigators today.

One of the business men newly named in the Revere probe now controls two or more liquor selling establishments in the beach city, the attorney general's office was informed.

FINGER IN OTHER JAMS

The other, under cover of more legitimate occupations, has a "finger" in at least five beano games still in operation, according to witnesses, giving evidence today.

In hands of Attorney-General Dever's investigators today was evidence, described as "concrete," against two Revere police officers and a Revere political official.

Probers said definitely that indictment of the official will be asked of the attorney general's "blue ribbon" grand jury, convening next week.

SERVED APPRENTICESHIP

According to information given investigators, the "big shot" of Revere's beano game organization of the recent past served his apprenticeship in management of a New England and New York lottery scheme.

The "boss" and his business men allies were taking $100,000 a year, major part of all beano profits in Revere and certain other communities, when state investigators broke down the set-up, the attorney general's probers were told today.

Alaska Enjoys Tourist Boom

The gold rush days may be gone forever and the Klondike may no longer fire the imagination of every seeker after treasure, but Alaska is today experiencing a new boom—this time a tourist one.

It was in the days of the gold rush that Alaska first became known to the world as a land of fabulous wealth and fantastic adventure. Its name was on the lips of every man who had a dream of fortune.

But now that part of the Alaska is known mostly to the old-timers. Gone are the days when dog teams by the hundreds mushed in its frozen trails. Even weird Indian carvings of totems and boats perched on the top of another were the Indian idea of heaven, a totem pole planted in front of the owner's door so that any passerby could tell at a glance the prowess of those who lived there.

Totem poles are sometimes as much as four stories high and so elaborately carved that they are valued as monuments of art. Many miles of fantastic totem poles can be found throughout Alaska and are the favorite souvenirs of Americans who visit there.

Floral Blaze At Canberra

Canberra, the federal capital of Australia, is set in a vast amphitheater at the foothills of the Australian Alps, 200 miles from Sydney. It is a garden city of wattle, blossom of flowering almond trees in pearl and plum. There are long avenues of decorative trees of white blossom and thousands of tulips which transform the capital into a mass of color in spring.

Niagara Falls Special May 30

A delightful suggestion for the Memorial Day week-end is a visit to Niagara Falls. The Niagara area is one of the most impressive and fascinating in America. Sunday excursion rates will be in effect, and a stop-over will be permitted at Albany, Utica, Syracuse and Rochester on both the going and returning trip. Full particulars may be obtained from any ticket agent of the New York Central Lines.

It is intended to proceed with the Queen Mary, now under construction at the Clydebank yard, and the new Liner is expected to be ready for her maiden voyage in 1939.

Quaint Singers Of Chapel Royal

The boys of the Chapel Royal, St. James's Palace, London, presented the cradle of Edward Caldecott, infant son of the Duke and Duchess of Kent, with the traditional costume of the choir boys. Dressed in a miniature replica of the boys' uniform, with the addition of a lace collar, the baby was carried by the boys and placed in a cradle of gold cloth, and was then rocked by the choir boys. The ceremony is one of the most ancient of royal customs.

'Light' Charge In Brennan Case Hit by Judge

"It's an astounding thing that the grand jury couldn't find sufficient cause to put this defendant to trial for a more serious offense."

That was Judge Wilford D Gray's comment today in sentencing Henry A. Stirling, 21 [illegible] years' imprisonment in the house of correction on an assault and battery charge.

"IMPOSE FULL SENTENCE"

Stirling's victim, 80-year-old Michael J. Brennan, a retired Cambridge police captain, died following the beating Stirling allegedly administered to him the night of May [illegible].

"I think we can fairly say the beating Captain Brennan received must have played a part in his death," Judge Gray, in passing sentence on Stirling today, commented, "but assault and battery is the only charge before me, and I see no other way of looking at it than to impose the full sentence the law permits—2½ years in the house of correction."

Stirling was held to the grand jury on charges of murder and manslaughter following the case. The grand jury however, returned an indictment charging assault and battery.

"It is a remarkable thing that there is only an assault and battery indictment here," was Judge Gray's comment.

Deal Leaders Blasted by Oregon Head

SALEM, Ore., May 18 (INS)—Oregon's primary election Friday assumed national importance today after white haired Governor Charles H. Martin excoriated administration leaders in a radio address and declared he was not a "rubber stamp" Democrat or a White House "yes man."

Seeking the Democratic renomination in the gubernatorial race, Governor Martin opened his address with regrets that "personalities and mud slinging" had entered the campaign, but added there were some things he could not permit to go unchallenged.

Among 13 critics and opponents the 71 year-old former army major assailed were the following:

Secretary of the Interior Ickes: "Washington's No. 1, thunderbug."

John L. Lewis: "He seeks to be America's labor dictator."

Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska: "In benevolent solicitude for the farmers of Oregon, he seeks to write their ballots."

Secretary of Labor Perkins: "Mr. Harry Bridges (West Coast CIO director) of Australia and Mr. Harold J. Pritchett of Canada (CIO leader) are both enjoying the hospitality of our fine country by grace of the secretary of Labor."

While taking issue with some administration policies the governor declared he was also a loyal supporter of President Roosevelt.

Baby's 2d Eye Periled

HELAINE COLAN

CHICAGO, May 18 (INS)—Specialists met in hurried consultation over the condition of Baby Helaine Colan today and indicated that total blindness was to be her fate.

A report submitted by Dr. E. V. L. Brown indicated that removal of the seven-week-old girl's remaining eye held forth the only hope of preventing her death.

The baby's left eye was removed on May 9 in the hope that the progress of glioma, a cancerous tumor of the optic nerve, might be checked.

Today a study of the removed eye was completed and the depressing report of Doctor Brown was submitted before associated specialists. They were to confer at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Samuel Hoffman, spokesman for the Colan family, today broke the fateful news to Helaine's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Herman Colan. Doctor Colan took it stoically. His wife wailed:

"Oh, no! Can't they wait a few days? Can't science find some way to save my baby from total blindness?"

Offers Plan To Whip U. S. Recession

CLEVELAND, May 18 (AP)—Charles R. Hook, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, asked fellow manufacturers today to go forth as "apostles of reason and truth," forgetting political differences, and unite on a program which, he said, "would in a year make us almost forget our present depression."

Hook, in an address prepared for delivery to the American Foundrymen's Association here, presented a seven-point program "to throw off the yoke of depression." Hook is also president of the American Rolling Mill Co.

"In the fog of ideologies that has settled over America," he said, "there is just one thing that stands out, bold and clear.

"The problem which America seeks to solve is how to provide more jobs, greater security and a greater abundance of the necessities and good things of life for the greatest number of her people."

Hook proposed a program for industry on which he said "we can confidently, hopefully stand":

Co-operation with government to create confidence in private enterprise.

Declaration by the federal government that it will not compete with private utilities.

Prompt solution of the railroad problem by adoption of new federal reform legislation that will result in a fresh period of uncertainty.

Adequate definition of social security.

Prompt solution of the problem of further relief funds for immediate purposes, relief funds to be administered by local agencies.

Old, Young Hardest Hit in Job Crisis

WASHINGTON, May 14 (INS)—President Roosevelt's economic council today brought to light data that severity of unemployment is greatest among the young workers and the old.

Nearly a fifth of the workers between 16 and 24 years of age reported themselves totally unemployed in the census, plus and 14.5 per cent of all workers from 65 to 64 years old are totally unemployed, compared to only 12.8 per cent among those aged 25 to 44 years old.

Press Fight Over Salem Banker's Will

SALEM, May 18. James Young, Jr., chief beneficiary in the $1,000,000 will of his late namesake cousin, Charles J. Rea of Salem, testified today that he made no attempt to influence the mind of the latter by letter or otherwise, of West Medford, who probated the $20,000,000 estate.

Rea, 93 at his death, was former president of the Salem Savings Bank. Young testified today he did not know the contents of Rea's will until the day after the funeral. He also testified Rea was of "firm character" and could not be influenced.

Young added that Rea once advised him not to leave Salem "because I have something in mind for you."

Young is now the president of the bank.

HOLLYWOOD, May 18—Every Hollywood studio will lend a helping hand to Edward J. Flynn, United States commissioner general, when he reaches here June 18 to assemble a film cavalcade of the United States. Commissioner Flynn will go into an immediate session with the Producers' Association and each film company will cooperate with him in filming a complete history of the United States.

So important will this history be that it will be shown in the government building at the New York World's Fair. The various movie companies will donate any scenes that Commissioner Flynn may ask for from pictures already made and from newsreels of public interest events. Other acquisitions scenes required will be made at cost since this is not a profit making venture but an educational and historical epic which will later be shown in the schools.

Miss Dunne's last stage appearance was in "Queen Victoria" in 1921.

And so they come from Paris way brought here by our Hollywood producers. Even Alice Brady of the type of leg acts Jimmy Stewart checks it at Warners starts her test and in "Bringing Up Baby" the same role he created on the stage. Bringing her back won't hurt that Walter Morris is out of the cast. Wayne has the scene near a park bench as he's with the girl. Then he has Lane chasing Ogden Nash, Ogden Le Havre, to be the "Brother Lot" Jones as seen across the fields. For Lawrence Gray with Dixie Dunbar.

The Lea Leaders Ray Rogers who just helped write Gene Autry was telling with the studio is the nearest thing to Gary Cooper he's seen has yet produced. He has the same difficulties the earlier STARS that characterized Gary's first efforts. Watch for Under Western Stars to become a western. Here will be to bring the cast.

'Cocoanut Grove' at Met

Cocoanut Grove comes to the Metropolitan screen tomorrow. The co-feature will be "Hunted Men," a melodrama featuring Lloyd Nolan and Mary Carlisle.

The Paramount musical tells the story of a gay hangout that revolves around the trials and tribulations of an unknown swing band trying to break into the actual Cocoanut Grove mecca of all young band leaders.

MacMurray is cast as the swing-happy young band leader and Harriet Hilliard plays the radio thrush, both roles incidentally, which these two have played in real life.

Safety

North End Boston police teach children of Cushman, Paul Revere and John Hancock schools how to cross streets safely. This is part of the police drive to cut the rising auto death toll in Boston.

Inferno!—Vivid view of 4-alarm West Roxbury icehouse fire at height. Flames drew 25,000 persons and was visible 20 miles.

Guarding Sky—One of anti-aircraft gun crews that "repelled" enemy fliers in theoretical raid over Farmingdale, N. Y., in U. S. army war games. All lights were doused and town was "blacked out" as foes winged overhead. Guns then blasted sky with death, foiling raid.

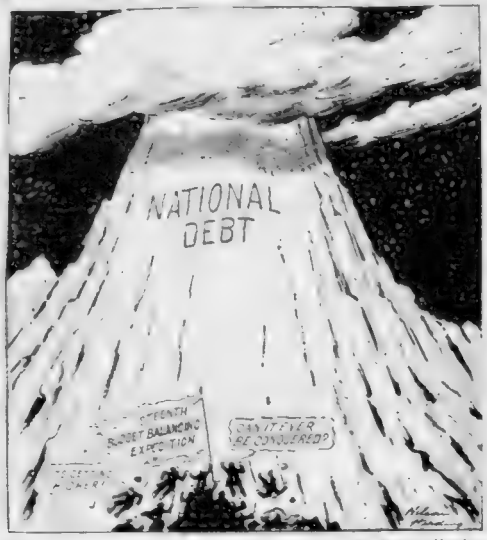
Our Mt. Everest



By Nelson Harding

The Editor Says:

From Asia comes news of [illegible] the nation, has an especial interest for New England. [illegible] Mt. Everest, world's loftiest mountain [illegible] to do what scores have failed to do in centuries [illegible] climbing group will shortly attempt to reach the summit. [illegible] people of all nations and races will acclaim them.

[illegible] should we of the United States acclaim them. It is [illegible] that we have no mountains of Everest's height. But we have something as awe-inspiring, at least a hundred times as impressive. WE HAVE OUR VAST MOUNTAIN OF PUBLIC DEBT.

And [illegible] probably will ever see the real top of it, for this [illegible] Everest, grows continually higher and higher.

AVIATION WEEK, now being celebrated throughout the nation, has an especial interest for New England. Twenty years ago the first air-mail was carried here. It was from a temporary field [illegible] miles from Rockingham Park in Salem, N. H. to Lawrence.

[illegible] BEFORE the first official air-mail flight from Roosevelt Field on Long Island to Mineola, N. Y.

Unfortunately, the celebration cannot be the joyful occasion it ought to be. Instead, the nation will deplore a NEW GRAB FOR DICTATORIAL POWER IN WASHINGTON.

On March 30, the Senate passed Senator Truman's amendment to the McCarran Bill to put the entire aviation industry of America under the Mussolini-like control of a bureau of political partisans, purposes entirely subservient to the President.

The Truman Amendment to the McCarran Bill, passed as it was over the protests of the statute's author, should be SCRAPPED BY CONGRESS IMMEDIATELY.

Otherwise, Congress will be SCRAPPING our great and expanding aviation industry.

GOOD NEWS is the Harvard report that an honorary [illegible] degree will be given Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy [illegible] when he returns from London to attend his son's graduation. We know of no man more deserving of the award.

Joe Kennedy's success in business and his prominence in public [illegible] rate him among Harvard's outstanding alumni. [illegible] abundant inspiration for all graduates, [illegible] Americans expect to work hard for everything they [illegible] important to remember that he earned his way [illegible].

COMMENDABLE EFFORTS are being made in the [illegible] $3,000,000 penalty which the Federal Government [illegible] to impose on Massachusetts if highway [illegible] for other purposes, as they have [illegible].

[illegible] automobiles registered in this State and thousands coming here from all parts of the country, we need [illegible] roads. Spending every cent of the money [illegible] tax on them is the least we can do.

Moreover, [illegible] $3,000,000 grant that Washington has promised [illegible] to provide jobs for hundreds of our unemployed [illegible]. To do it would be a tragic mistake.

The Political Parade

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

WASHINGTON, MAY 18.

TO THE [illegible] looking in, it does seem that the reason why Secretary Hull [illegible] all these [illegible] is to remove the other guy so that he won't have to resign.

On April 13 while Mr. Hull was in North Carolina playing his favorite game of "golf," in which it is said the old master can break a hundred, or its equivalent, Mr. Roosevelt knocked his press conference cockeyed by fishing a memorandum from his desk, in response to the question of an obviously puzzled correspondent, and placing the White House blessing on the seizing of Ethiopia.

The queer thing about it was that on the same day, if memory be not at fault, the Associated Press reported that the State Department had said that Secretary Hull would designate Japan, Germany and Italy as treaty violating nations, if the Administration should be requested by Congressional resolution to name treaty-breaking powers.

Rumors that Mr. Hull would quit his job finally reached the front page, coupled with a strong denial by Mr. Hull. That was early last week.

• • •

FINALLY on last Thursday, May 12, Secretary Hull permitted himself to be quoted as saying that the American government adhered to its policy of non-recognition of conquered territory, in spite of the recognition by Great Britain and France of the conquest of Ethiopia by Mr. Hitler's friend Mr. Mussolini.

This could only mean, of course, that Secretary Hull formally repudiated the [illegible] President Roosevelt's personal blessing of April 19, on the conquest of Ethiopia and the [illegible] invasion of Spain.

Now, of course, when a Secretary of State can [illegible] the gentlemen of the press authorize [illegible] quotation and then [illegible] repudiate a policy [illegible] by the President in [illegible] terms, obviously that Secretary of State doesn't have to resign.

He can have his say with [illegible] getting out.

The congressional campaign is on, and the departure of the Secretary of State, a [illegible] issue on everything save the tariff, upon which he is a John C. Calhoun disciple and belongs back in 1838, will be a political calamity which the New Deal couldn't endure.

• • •

MR. HULL of late, it is said, has been speaking his mind rather frankly to the President on DOMESTIC PROBLEMS.

Probably the President hasn't liked it. That is surmise. But this is no guess.

Sam McReynolds, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, has steadfastly refused to let his committee take up the neutrality repeal.

Hull has now sustained the position taken by McReynolds.

The Senate committee voted 17 to 1 to sustain Hull.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

SOME husbands are just inconsiderate enough to get sick and threaten to pass on to a better world, now that their wives have followed the new spring craze and bought new red outfits.

Husbands and automobiles are alike in lots of ways; but you can't convince the average woman that the harder she puts on the brakes, the more they are apt to skid.

And then again, many a woman who is unhappily married, carries on, year after year, simply because her husband hasn't any trade in value.

What of Today, Tomorrow?

Take Any Honest Job, Suffolk Head Says

"Frequently—very frequently—success begins with humility, in the case of capable University which now is cited."

Thus the advice-to-Suffolk graduates of '38 becomes a fairly usual belief in the eyes of the students much more than in the eyes of students of some other New England Colleges.

By PAUL WHELTON
Boston Evening American Staff Writer

When Suffolk University's class of 1938 turns their backs finally on the halls of learning and face the Great Adventure, they will have but one aim toward reaching their ultimate careers:

Get a job—any job—provided it is honest employment.

"False pride about the need for a job has never existed among registrants at our placement bureau," it was asserted by President Gleason L. Archer, who also is the founder.

"OUR STUDENTS ARE WILLING TO WAIVE THEIR NATURAL DESIRE FOR APPRENTICESHIP IN THEIR HOPED-FOR PROFESSIONAL VOCATIONS TO ACCEPT ANY KIND OF HONEST, FULL OR PART-TIME EMPLOYMENT.

"I have counselled and talked with many thousands of students in the 32 years of the existence of Suffolk Law School and the other more recent departments of Suffolk University.

"During these years practically every business and industry has absorbed some [illegible] graduates of Suffolk. They have been men who did not start out [illegible] high school value on their services.

Many have subsequently advanced to positions of great responsibility in the business world. [illegible] Archer trained lawyers are legion in New England and elsewhere.

"ALL WORK IS HONORABLE. WE COUNSEL THEM TO START AT THE BOTTOM OF THE LADDER AND QUALIFY THEMSELVES FOR A BETTER POSITION FREQUENTLY A MAN DEVELOPS NEW CAPABILITIES WHICH DECIDE HIM TO CHANGE HIS GOAL AND CONTINUE IN THE WORK IN WHICH HE HAS BEEN ENGAGED.

"I agree with other authorities that students should have a definite plan for business life and should bend every energy toward obtaining and attaining business goals.

"Since there are many invaluable lessons to be learned from the school of life any goal, however difficult of attainment, is advanced by daily contact with the problems of life while earning a living—an efficient antidote for mere book learning.

"Fifty years ago there were comparatively few separate vocations open to college-trained people—but not so today.

"THERE IS A DIVERSITY OF VOCATIONS WITHIN VOCATIONS, THE NUMBER OF WHICH IS RATHER STAGGERING.

"The advertising profession, for instance, consists not just in writing copy for publication, but it embodies a knowledge of merchandising, sales, cooperative dealer work, plate-making, typography, media, consumer research, etc.

"I KNOW OF MANY CASES WHERE YOUNG MEN HAVE STARTED AS CLERKS, COUNTER MEN IN RESTAURANTS, OR EVEN AS DAY LABORERS, AND HAVE WON CONSPICUOUS SUCCESS IN LIFE.

"Many great corporations have Suffolk men in their executive or legal departments.

"A Suffolk graduate in the class of 1923, for example, was recently appointed administrator of the Securities and Exchange Commission in New York the big boss of Wall Street.

"He is one of many Suffolk lawyers who have made good in fields aside from law.

"PART-TIME TRAINING IS OF GROWING IMPORTANCE IN AMERICAN LIFE. MEN WITH THEIR FEET ON THE GROUND ARE SAFE LEADERS.

"Selling magazine subscriptions, canvassing for household articles, restaurant counter man, garage mechanic, clerk's men in these lines and many others may not seem to lead directly to the vocational goal, but they do provide a testing laboratory for character and ability.

"THE DROSS IS REFINED FROM THE GOLD AND THE STERLING METAL SHINES BRIGHTLY THROUGH THE YEARS OF LATER ACCOMPLISHMENT.

"Not until recently has our Placement Bureau become very important at Suffolk University.

"In former years the majority of students in the law school were already employed. They found law training helpful in their every day work. Many graduated for executive positions in their companies or upon graduation entered law firms or established their own law offices.

"Changes in the financial and economic structure of business in the last three years have resulted in changes in the character of our student body.

"More students now come to us direct from high schools. Their problem is to find employment which will give them the means to pursue their education in the evening.

"BUSINESS MAY WELL ENCOURAGE SUCH SERIOUS STUDENTS, BECAUSE THEIR COMBINED MENTAL AND ECONOMIC URGES MAKE THEM WILLING, CONSCIENTIOUS WORKERS.

"An additional important factor has been the generally younger group of students who have enrolled in the new college departments of liberal arts, journalism and business administration.

"They are serious-minded students who have a definite idea of a vocation but are willing to delay their work in their chosen fields and accept almost any kind of work to produce the necessary funds for tuition and other expenses.

"It is the aim of the placement bureau not only to find jobs which will guide the students temporarily, but also more and more to assist in guiding them definitely into vocational work which will give them practical experience in the vocation for which they are studying."

President Archer's good advice concludes the series of interviews with college officials. Another series of interest to young people who desire employment begins on this page tomorrow.

Girl About Town by Marguerite Downey

FREQUENTLY in news items and society columns, the MacDowell Colony in New Hampshire is mentioned as the beneficiary of some undertaking. Few realize that this settlement in the Peterboro foothills is a little Utopia, an incubator of some of America's greatest minds. It exists today as the result of a remarkable incident in the life of Edward MacDowell, one of America's greatest musical members. His practical if invincible wife put into it her genius.

Marguerite Downey

As the author lay dying he remembered with gratitude the kindly natives of the New Hampshire wood and expressed the hope that other creative minds might share the same peace. His wife devoted her life to the realization of the wish and the 450 acres of primeval forest became a reality.

Here, it was said, "the spirit of the country work goes on from year to year. Silent messengers of inner harmony are at the door of the day, the artists repair to secret halls. Only a foundation for inspiration is set up, indirect in the creative arts. Art as an adornment of human existence will be the world's eternal handmaid."

NO LESS than 60 former prize winners have been invited among the colonists. Daniel Gregory Mason, Edward Burlingame Hill, Theresa Wolfson, Percy MacKaye, Women's League of San Luis Rey and the late Edgar Allan Poe's mother-in-law were among the literary.

Among others who have found inspiration in the serenity of the Monadnock Valley: Robert Wm. Cohen, Louis Untermeyer, Edwin Arlington Robinson, Stuart Mason, Hilda Morgan, Louise Townsend Nicholl, Charles Wakefield Cadman and Mabel Daniels.

It's a heaven on earth, where the greatest creative minds of the day mingle in easy familiarity. As the Boston Ma[illegible] Club's [illegible] so well describes it:

It looks over the whispering treetops
And hears the setting sun."

Boston After Dark

By GEORGE HOLLAND

THOSE THREE UNHAPPY WIVES of prominent Democrats in Massachusetts who took a Republican detour in an attempt to reach the Court of St. James' can still be among the year's presentees to the King and Queen of England . . . The Republican detour was an appeal to a powerful and social G. O. P. Senator . . . But the Kennedy ban on presentations blocked that, and the ban was so wholly non-partisan that a Democrat intermediary would have been no more successful . . . But here's a tip for the ambitious ladies, and also to a social registerite from the Back Bay whose request wasn't granted either.

George Holland

The British rulers have agreed to meet large gatherings of internationals at a pair of "presentation parties" . . . One will be held next Wednesday (and there's time to catch a boat) . . . The other has been set for July 12 . . . Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy will present on both occasions . . . The affairs will take the form of garden parties on the grounds of Buckingham Palace.

The dates are so arranged that Ambassador Kennedy will be able to attend Harvard Commencement exercises, and accept the honorary degree which it is reported he will receive from his Alma Mater.

Long anticipated, the American "Cavalcade"—or what its author hopes will parallel the great Noel Coward opus—has been written and is nearly ready for an audience . . . Salem will see it first, and if it proves to be of historical and entertainment moment, that city will be "the dateline" of wire-stories . . . John Hunter Booth is the author of the work, which is entitled "Created Equal," and describes episodes in American life from 1776 to the present . . . The Federal Theater is sponsoring the spectacle, and it is being heralded as "The American 'Cavalcade' " . . . Next Tuesday is the date of the premiere, at the Empire Theater, Salem . . . Young "Junior" Earle listened attentively to broadcast of his father's (Governor George H. Earle) victory over his Old opponent for the Democratic nomination for Senator in Pennsylvania, and with a group of Harvard mates early today

Once Over Lightly:

Ann Pepperhorn, [illegible] Zorina, the star of "I Married An Angel," is working under an assumed name . . . Her real name is Imogene Hartwig . . . Jimmy Needham, young Dorchester man, and son of Mike Needham, popular bartender at the Essex, has gotten a job as singer on a transatlantic liner because he won a contest sponsored by a [illegible] magazine . . . Homer Pietro, the Boston [illegible] came out second best in a contest last night on the Ripley hour . . . Bo Allman was the winner . . . Proceeding along a radio tangent briefly, Newcomb B. Thompson (N. F. T.), this paper's radio editor, says the reason he keeps himself down so precisely that on a contest the other guy isn't able to stop talking exactly when the second hand of his watch showed that two minutes had elapsed . .

Four times out of five was the Thompson accomplishment . . . What makes it interesting is that N. F. T.'s watch was turned face down on the table while a friend clocked him . . . If any of the local make-men have their doubts about Newcomb's ability to cease ad-libbing at the exact second of the expiration of a two-minute period, they can hazard a few dollars on their scepticism and the radio-scribe will cover their bets . . .

Listeners are continuing to bemoan the exigency that caused last Saturday's broadcast of the Red Sox 10-9 victory over Washington to be cut off the air at the tense moment in the game when Joe Cronin faced the pitcher, eventually to bash out the single that tied up the ball game . . .

The New York Angle:

Joe McCarthy and the New York sports writers agree that the Sox are an outfit of "early summer glories" . . . Daniel (of Daniel's Dope) doped it out this-a-way: "The Boston journals seem attacked with another dose of that pennant fever they distributed through the Charlesbank population last season . . . Boston is being kept in the van by two men—Bob Grove, who has won six in a row, and Jimmy Foxx, who has hit eight homers, driving in 39 runs and lingered around the .330 mark in the averages . . . It isn't in the cards for both Bob and Jimmy to continue at their current pace . . .

Grove and Foxx, eh? . . . Foxx is hitting .352, not "around .330 . . . Cronin (.365) and Chapman (.361 are topping Double X, and two other mates, Vosmik and Cramer are close on his heels in the averages . . .

First prediction that the Sox would win a pennant this year was made in this column . . . And the price of 20-1 which your correspondent got on the Yawkeymen's chances could be sold at a neat profit right now . . .

Chatter:

There is much sound and fury brewing in Winchester . . . The cops and one of the town's selectmen are about to have it out . . . Chief William Rogers will toss the first verbal shortly, and will charge that the town fathers have tried to dictate to the police force . . . Ralph Sacco of East Boston, who is performing this week at the Hotel Minerva, has been signed for a picture which goes before the cameras June 1 . . . Olga, his diminutive partner, will work with him . . . The two have ten weeks of booking following their film assignment in and around Hollywood . . .

Benjamin Franklin Drama As Air Highlight Tonight

By N. F. T.

HOW YOUNG Benjamin Franklin figured in our history has the "Cavalcade of America" sound stage center (WEEI) from 8 to 8:30 tonight.

OPPOSITION on this 8 o'clock stroke (WNAC) is, as always, the "One Man's Family" feature with youthful "Jack Barbour" introducing a new figure to the program, a lass labeled "Betty Carter" with "love interest" involved.

AFTER THE Al Pearce program last night, coast-to-coaster from Boston, this column found out that Arlene (Hutton Chatterton) Harris, the fast-talking one, is the wife of D. Harry Harris a medico of Ann Arbor, Michigan.

Arlene Harris

Moreover, the good Doc is at his wits' end as to what treatment might allow up her gabbing, so he lets her sell it for money—hence they live quite happily.

FASTER THAN a rifle bullet, that's 600 miles an hour, which is how fast Ralph Smith has traveled toward earth as a test pilot of planes. He'll explain it as the "person you didn't expect to meet" with Fred Allen this evening (WNAC) at 9:00.

GRACE MOORE brings back Phillip Crane, Jr., the young Chicago baritone who is acclaimed by [illegible] Judge for [illegible] (WEEI) when he sings between 9 and 9:30 tonight.

'Day or Night, Night or Day'

SALEM, May 18 When [illegible] time not night time.

When it's still day-time Herbert Hurd, 29, Fayette street, Lynn, insisted to Judge Edward T. Broadhurst in Salem Superior Criminal Court today.

Hurd and William J. Kennedy, 27, Spring street, Lynn, were arraigned on charges of "breaking and entering in the night-time." They were charged with having stolen 11 quarts of liquor from a liquor store.

"But it was day-time, your honor," Hurd protested. "It was only about 6 p. m., and it was still daylight out."

Judge Broadhurst tried to explain that, legally, night-time is from one half hour after sundown to one half hour before sunrise. Hurd and Kenney, however, refused to plead guilty to the night time charge.

The court ordered a plea of not guilty entered.

BETTY ALDEN

On Beacon Hill

Fashionables Flock To Johnson Lecture

By BETTY ALDEN

ALONG BOSTON'S famous modernized cowpaths 25 years certainly make a difference in scenery and style . . . but in the remote South Sea Islands nothing changes during a quarter of a century except the tides.

With her lecture for the benefit of the Museum of Natural History, last evening at the Statler, Mrs. Martin Johnson showed moving pictures which she and Mr. Johnson made on their first trips to some of the cannibal islands 25 five years ago . . . and, according to Nancy Holdsworth of Brookline, who has just returned from a round-the-world cruise on which she visited many of the same islands, the natives, their customs, and the scenery, look exactly the same.

A small piece of batik cloth worn with a neat bone nose ring is still the very latest spring fashion (also summer, fall and winter) . . . and doing an energetic dance routine which resembles the big apple, Suzy Q, shimmy and a few improvisations all rolled into one, is still the favorite pastime . . .

• • •

Post Debs in Roles of Ushers

SCENES OF BORNEO AND AFRICA also brought back interesting memories to Nancy as she also visited them on her cruise aboard the schooner Yankee . . . She acted as an usher for the lecture and appropriately chose for her costume the modern repudiation of the old maxim, "East is East, West is West, and never the twain shall meet" . . . for her gown was of a South Sea Island silken print cut on the most modish modern lines . . .

Nancy was one of a dozen or more post debs who helped Elizabeth "Sister" Ware with her head usher duties . . . seating the fashionable guests who were drawn from their firesides by the prospects of seeing a thrilling and adventurous movie of big game hunting in the far ends of the world . . . Mrs. Chatfield Whitman, Mrs. Frederick Bradlee, Jr., and Mrs. W. Davies Sohier were among the coterie of feminine movie goers who let out a muffled gasp at some of the most hair raising scenes of lions and "rhinos" charging at the camera . . . Mrs. Bradlee's black dress was enhanced by a jade yellow necklace and a bow of yellow and black veiling adorned her small black turban . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Pike sat with Mrs. Roger W. Cutler, who wore an attractive print with a pleated skirt and sable cape . . . Mrs. Pike's cinnamon tweeds were brightened with blue green accessories . . . The Christian Herters were in a party with tennis playing Mrs. William Endicott of the North Shore and George Von L. Meyer . . . all seasoned travelers but perfectly willing to view scenes of the cannibal islands and the pigmy colony in Central Africa in the movies rather than "in the flesh" . . . and we don't blame them.

• • •

Evie Weatherby in White Satin Gown

MR. AND MRS. ANDIE MARSHALL, JR., were among the adventure loving younger members of the audience and with them were Mr. and Mrs. W. Farnsworth Loomis (Vi Amory) . . . the latter in a colorful print with a bright green quilted taffeta jacket . . . Gleaming white satin fashioned Evie Weatherby's nice evening wrap with a white fox scarf nestled under her chin, and Mrs. Thomas Claflin had a lovely circular ermine cape over her black lace gown adorned with large pink, yellow and blue tulips . . .

Mrs. William A. Gaston, mother of the first Mrs. John A. Howard, applauded vigorously when Mr. Howard president of the Museum of Natural History, made a little introductory speech before Mrs. Johnson took the stage . . . The latter looked anything but an African explorer . . . her tiny figure glistening in a white sequin-studded gown with white fox sleeves and a huge purple orchid on one shoulder . . . She talked throughout the picture, explaining the various scenes . . .

Jane Woodhouse, with a peacock blue lace topper on her black gown, was another interested listener as were the Charles Sumner Birds, Mrs. Charles Allen Porter, Mr. and Mrs. William Dunnell, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Bradley French, Betty Dumaine, who had an interesting trip up some of the tropical rivers of South America this past winter, Mrs. Charles Eliot Ware, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Coolidge . . .

Others in the party will be Mrs. Charles Allen Porter, Mrs. James Everett Cheney, Mrs. Leigh Osborne, Mrs. Richard Grammer, Mrs. Malcolm Wiener, Mrs. Henry Wade Elliot, Mrs. Langdon Bradley and Mrs. F. Murray Forbes.

Ruth Weyburn Debut in Fall

Before the summer season breaks up and North Shoreites trek back to town for the first autumn, the debutantes will have a chance to sing a gay swan song to the season at Ruth Weyburn's coming-out party on September 2.

Miss Weyburn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyon Weyburn of Prides Crossing, will make her social bow on that date at a dance at the Weyburn residence. She is a senior at the Masters' School at Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., and has already invited a number of her classmates there to come on for the party.

Among them are the Misses Pauline Herrick of Hewitt, L. I., Mary Hale of Chicago, Miss Parker of New York and Miss [illegible] Brown of Pittsburgh.

Melrose Girl In Bridal Party

Miss Bette Taylor will be a member of the bridal party at the marriage on June 17 of her brother, Donald Frederick Taylor, of Melrose, to Miss Haines, daughter of Lieutenant Colonel and Mrs. Edgar Frenet Haines of Governor's Island, New York. Mr. Taylor graduated from M. I. T. in 1933.

MOVE TO SHORE SOON

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Adams, Jr., of Chestnut Hill, will enjoy a long summer season on the North Shore, since they expect to move to their cottage on Sea street, Manchester, in a week or ten days.

Sandwich Suggestions

FROM MARTHA LEE'S WEDNESDAY BROADCAST OVER STATION WHDH—11:30 A. M.

Hostesses wishing to set aside themselves for the summer beware the sandwich!

If you have that feminine knack of making a better one when and the world doesn't beat a path to your doorstep for them it is indeed no sure way to win friends and influence people—as they say.

On the other hand, if popularity appears to you a mere matter of the passing. A sandwich as a social dance band is just as good as the arranger.

Through it may not exactly win you personal fame, it will surely widen your horizon and fill your house with adoring sandwich fans. Nothing can stop you! The world loves a good sandwich maker.

The first requisite is good materials. The bread must be good and the filling good. Next in importance is proper combination. As that's where the artistry comes in.

A sandwich is a sandwich, to be sure, only when the ingredients are of the choicest. It may be all right to use pimento in many cases, olives and celery. It was made to please.

For example, Sardine Mayonnaise is a sandwich for the hostess with or without an established reputation. It takes just very little preparation behind a bowl of dressing and it is said to ruin even its own heart and wrecks like the Tower of Pisa.

Although it is an exceptionally delicious sandwich, it has the one point in common with a sandwich we'd like to treat it lightly with many pickles. It must be served with a fork and a cool drink for best results.

SANDWICH MASQUERADE

The bread must be very fresh sliced very thin and cut with a large round cutter. If you are a stickler for detail, you may cut the bread in the form of a heart, if you're really romantic.

Prepare your filling for each sandwich and spread it with a little butter.

COMBINATION: For the sandwich inside: hard-cooked egg, grated cheese, chopped ripe olives and sweet pickle.

Place the first slice of bottom layer. On it spread your ham and cheese and put the top slice. On top place lettuce and pickles.

When ready to serve with Thousand Island dressing, cut the dressing and spread with a little mayonnaise.

COMBINATION: Chicken, celery and mayonnaise. Between lettuce, tomato, mayonnaise and pickle.

COMBINATION: Cream cheese, shredded pineapple, chopped nuts or grated orange rind and cucumber. Use your own choice.

COMBINATION: Cream cheese, horseradish, Worcestershire sauce, what have you.

COMBINATION: Cream cheese, chopped olives, pimento, onion, tomato. Good on a bed of lettuce or a wisp of watercress.

Enchantress in White

PERFECTION with prints, pastels or chalk-white sharkskin are these expensive-looking straws of clear white with dark bands.

ABOVE, this hat comes with veil and is fetching with or without it.

WITH CHALK-WHITE so important in prints, as background or main motif, the clear white hat is greatly important. White sharkskin and synthetics are going to frost the scene, and with these too, either the dark or brilliant or pure white hat is necessary. And the white is most chic. We've found a group of pure white leghorn and imported straw braid hats that look at least twice as much as they cost—they're from five to seven dollars—as you can judge yourself from the sketches! An ingenuous-looking number is the top off-the-face with dark velvet band. Center is the high-crowned straw-braid poke which has a veil, if you wish it. Below, chalk-white leghorn in a smart shallow sailor has double pique bows. For shopping information on these hats, phone Annice Brink, Fashion Editor, LIBerty 4000, week-days until five, or write her at the Boston American.

Eyelids Like Shining Petals

By ARLINE GOULD

NOW IT'S oil for the eyelids of loveliness that promises to bring you an eyelash flutter nearer to your ideal of seductiveness!

It will lend a soft sheen to ... lashes in your dressing table ... the ... lights of some ... ... might spot ... on to shine under ... big dark hats of your most ... daytime hat ... or to ... catch the lazzz of the sun as you ride with your hair blowing in the wind . . . this is what the new herbal tissue oil will do for you!

When your eyes are closed, the lids will look like two smooth and shining magnolia petals.

But more than all this, the herbal tissue oil will first of all protect the tender skin above the eyes from encroaching wrinkles and puckers!

This is the season of heady nonsense that's coming upon us. This is the time when you'll all give in to some midsummer madness or other. The merry merry month of May starts you off. But as you go in reckless and headlong flight, don't forget that it's also the season when hot sun begins new and agonizing lines in your tender skin.

It shoots at you from all sides from the dancing waves that jab sharp light at your face from the very sidewalk that throws it up and makes you squint!

Squints are responsible for more eye wrinkles than age. So you see the native eye advantage of using a herbal tissue oil which renews and softens and protects the eye lids even while it makes them enchanting enough to shine in someone's dreams . . .

If you'd like to find out all about the herbal eye tissue oil which renews the young freshness of the vulnerable skin around the eyes even while it gives a glamorous, Hollywood look to the lids—phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, week days until five, or write her at the Boston American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The $500,000 Romance -:- By Lewis A. Brown

What Has Happened:

Marylin Keene has built up a profitable business as public stenographer and accountant. One of her clients is Sheridan Thorpe, a young lawyer. They have alway been the best of friends and lately Marylin finds him a subject of romantic interest

Mrs. Keene, Marylin's mother, is distantly related to Colonel Proctor, the one millionaire in the village. It is common gossip that when he dies Marylin and Flora Cunningham, a flighty young orphan of about Marylin's age, are to be his heirs

Flora is jealous of Marylin; first, on account of her relationship to the colonel, but chiefly because Sheridan Thorpe seems to prefer Marylin's society to hers

Flora boards with a Mrs. Winslow, who aids Flora in her schemes to ingratiate herself with both the colonel and Sheridan

A gayly colored roadster darts about the roadways with Flora at the wheel and one day Marylin sees young Thorpe accompanying her. She tries not to notice the incident, but her mother also sees it and comments on their friendship.

Sheridan is called away on business and it is several weeks before Marylin sees him again

Now Continue:

CHAPTER 2

Marylin glanced up when she heard her office door open and saw Sabrina Tuttle, the village librarian.

Automatically Marylin slipped some loose leaf ledger pages into her drawer because Miss Tuttle was noted as Westlands foremost and most active "Paul Pry" and gossip. She would rush into the papers, if possible, and then talk about the figures she had seen.

"Hello, dear," Miss Tuttle gushed, "are you just too awfully busy?"

I wouldn't be too awfully busy Miss Tuttle Marylin said, pleasantly because if the work demanded it I would get an assistant. Right now I have a lot of work."

"The library trustees meet next Monday my dear, and I want a copy of the revised catalog I want three copies in fact. The library fund will pay for it, you know. I've made the revision in long hand and it has to be typed two carbons and Miss Tuttle began duck[illegible]

The satisfactorily arranged Mayor promised to have it done. By working two nights she could. She knew do it. This was going to [illegible] profitable month for her and she was quite happy over it.

As Cunningham drove past the office the moment Miss Tuttle left, she noticed Flora Cunningham. Miss Tuttle said with that sweet Colonel Proctor gave her. I suppose he'll give you one, too, Marylin."

What a idea! Why should he?

Why shouldn't he? You're a pretty girl."

Marylin shook her head.

No, of all that's just silly talk. I might be a grandniece or niece removed, but I don't. But Miss Tuttle were not related even by marriage. One of mothers aunts or something was distantly related by marriage to a sister of the Countess [illegible] wife, so you see how all and any claim would be.

FREE ADVICE

Oh! Well, I wouldn't say so. I'd see to that old Colonel Proctor let me that you felt that you were entitled. You neighbors will have one of his nieces that Flora Cunningham would act just like a drowning sailor to save. If she let his money throw it all away in no time." she glanced at the clock. "Don't fail me with the carbon, dear copies, dearie."

Marylin grinned and watched the tongue wagging Miss Tuttle depart. She hoped she had said nothing that Miss Tuttle could gossip about but she wasn't sure.

It was said about town that Miss Tuttle knew every new blade of grass that came up in the spring and every leaf that fell in the fall and gossiped about them. Marylin took the monthly company's figures from her desk drawer and went on with her work.

However, there was just a little trace of unhappiness in the back of her mind. Sherry hadn't been in to see her in more than a week and now she had seen him riding with Flora in her glittering new car. She sighed at the figures for a moment.

Flora had every day to herself, she had a sufficient income and she got a great deal more from Colonel Proctor. While Mary was working in her little office Flora did go chasing about and could never Sherry Thorpe on every possible occasion.

DID SHERRY KNOW?

Another disturbing thought came to Marylin. Colonel Proctor's lawyers were Thorpe & Thorpe. His will would be in their hands. Sherry probably. She was father. Sherry would know the provisions of the will.

Every [illegible] would get most of the old man's [illegible] With a fortune at stake Sherry [illegible] Flora. It could [illegible] Flora [illegible] Marylin [illegible] Sherry [illegible] for [illegible]

Austen Lake Says

Why Wonderland Swifty Should Be Golden Goose

IF I WAS GIVEN MY DRUTHERS in the matter Wonderland's pooch saucer would not bother to rename Swiftly, the mechanical bunny. I would stuff and gild a Belgian gander, fix it to the motor and call it the Galloping Golden Goose. For, if there is a golden goose in the realm of track gambling, it is this three-acre garden spot which was salvaged from a mosquito bog three years ago, a short-husband call away from Revere's street of goofy delight, where the barrel organs bleat and the summer horde comes to seek new sensations.

AUSTEN LAKE

Indeed, the band of mendicants who three years ago predicted sin and corruption if the pencil-behind-ear pups were allowed to shatter in these hallowed purlieus, must be mortified to note that Wonderland has handed $150,000 regularly during the last two summers, plus the gate receipts, plus one half of the breakage, plus concession rentals, plus program fees.

This means, by simple arithmetic that Wonderland's 11½ per cent of the kitty, with the perquisites listed, yields around $19,000 nightly of which less than one-third is eaten by operation and . . . Ahem! shall we say political moochery? My estimate of the latter cost is, naturally, vague because political moochers are both avaricious and shy.

* * *

Fountain of Wealth

ANYHOW, BY MULTIPLYING 80 RACING days—it's 80 this summer—by the nocturnal gross one arrives at an annual income of $1,520,000, less the operating third, or, roughly, a million clear. Which makes Wonderland a luscious bit o'business, considering that the original investment was around $350,000, and that mostly on the contractor's cuff.

Up to the moment Wonderland has cleared (I may be a few thousands wrong either way, a cool $2,462,000 from the pari mutuels, plus $238,466 breakage, plus about $400,000 gate receipts, plus about $150,000 program profits, plus restaurant rentals. What do you make of that Watson? Why Holmes, the greatest fountain of riches since O'Hara's Pawtucket vacuum milked the public cow until the docile old beast's udder cracked.

Now, not for an instant do I presume to rebuke the happy citizens who trundle out to Wonderland and shove their cash over the sill to buy abdominal flops, intestinal tickles and feelings of fur on the larynx. If it brightens the lives of jaded gents and leaves ladies with reason enough for living.

* * *

The Citizens Love It

BUT THIS IS A TIME FOR STOCK TAKING as we near the fourth season of the gambling hounds. Because I remember typing an opus from St Petersburg, Fla., after snooping around the Kennel Club in March of 1935. I testified that greyhound racing had more honest possibilities than horse racing, what with receiving kennels and absence of jockeys. I still subscribe to that and find dog racing at Wonderland 99 44-100 pure.

But I surmised then and insist now that such forms of mass gin madness, born in a state famed for factories of textiles such as undies, shopping in automobiles and pretty girls for breakfasts was not an acceptable form of diversion in a sane, sober and industrious community like this neck of the woods.

Yet for three years the sane, sober and industrious people have shrugged off their lickings, which after all are their personal lickings as nobody can deny, and come back annually for more. It is interesting to see how this licking works.

Of the $150,000 average which passes through the mutuel choppers each night during the season, about one-fourth represents actual, liquid funds brought to the track, or about $37,000. Of this the track and state together take $22,500 (15 per cent of $150,000) and the breakage amounts to at least $1500 (1 per cent). The remaining $13,000 is divided up among the lucky winners, at the average rate of $1300 per each of ten nightly races—not much return.

* * *

Honest But Avaricious

PERSONALLY I HAVE FOUND THE greyhound kennel owners representative people and the race officials impeccable. There has been no smelly track scandal, no doping charges, no scream of fraud. The operators sensed early in the game that, to succeed, the affairs of the track must be conducted without reproach. I believe they have succeeded.

My only complaint . . . that the cash is too piled and the return too meager, considering . . . Wonderland to date has returned almost 1000 per cent on . . . [illegible] . . . compared with the wonder [illegible] . . . This compares with . . . investment of $2,000,000 and yield of around 15 per cent.

The time is arriving, in fact the time is long overdue, when the legislators should reduce Wonderland's 15 per cent take to 10 per cent and eliminate the breakage. There is, and never has been, any reason why the track cashiers cannot pay off to the penny. When one considers that the state and track have whacked up $476,932 on breakage in three seasons, you get a crude idea of what an item mere pennies are in this line of cadgery. I might add that the figures for this audit come from the State Racing Commission's report.

A Puff for De Sautels

Foxx Lauds Red-Headed Catcher

'Clutcher'

Gene Desautels, whose hitting in the pinches has made hit with Jimmy Foxx.

This is fourth in a series of articles [illegible] the Boston American [illegible] baseball writers [illegible] Red Sox [illegible] Jimmy Foxx [illegible] Desautels [illegible] a deputy [illegible] Owners.

By JIMMY FOXX

As Told to Walter Kiley

Mary, [illegible] owners with [illegible] department with Rick Ferrell [illegible] fact of the matter is that we have a good [illegible] Desautels.

[illegible] a lot better [illegible] He has a world of [illegible] age. He's [illegible] He "reads" the game.

He uses excellent judgment [illegible] has pitchers and I [illegible] a better performer now than [illegible] a pleasure to [illegible] ence.

Desautels isn't a great hitter, but he is what we use to call a clutch hitter, a fellow who delivers when hits mean runs.

Ben Chapman

When a hitting home run is given credit for winning Saturday's game with the Senators, Gene's timely homer was just as necessary to victory.

And he came through handsomely with a hard, sparkling double to decide Sunday's tie with the same Senators. Joe Cronin coasting in with the important tally.

Ben Chapman helped Gene materially over the weekend. The two are keen on the job.

Ben noticed Desautels' habit of rocking as he waited for pitch, a teetering from one foot to the other.

He called this fact to Gene's attention, and the latter quit the habit with beneficial results.

It's a real shame that Mee Fergie isn't a better batter. There's a fellow who knows how to handle pitchers and has every weakness of rival batsmen at his fingertips.

If he could hit .280, he'd be a standout.

The reverse holds true for Johnny Peacock, our third string catcher.

In tomorrow's BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, Jimmy Foxx will tell about the Red Sox outfield.

Cronin Passes Up Vet, Will Rely On Rookies

CHICAGO, May 18—Manager Joe Cronin has been insisting right along that the Red Sox hurling staff is much stronger than its early record let [illegible] by those critics who claim that Mace Grove and Jack Wilson are the only real pitchers on the club.

And today the Fenway foreman proved his sincerity in his belief by passing up a chance to pick Joe Heving, recently released by the Cincinnati Indians with permission to sign up with another big league club if he could.

WON FIGHT, LOST FOUR

Heving, an elongated right-hander who was used by the Indians chiefly in relief roles last year, [illegible] with Portland of the Pacific Coast League. [illegible] four games [illegible] Red Sox to [illegible] he dropped [illegible] of two [illegible]

"If it were Later in the season and we were up in the race, I might take Heving due to his experience, but right now I wouldn't consider him because I don't think he has as much stuff as any of my youngsters, and his presence on the staff would lessen their opportunity to gain experience," Boss Joe asserted, the while he pulled for gloomy skies to brighten in time to permit his pace-setting charges to open their first Western invasion against the White Sox this afternoon.

"I think all our rookie pitchers will be winners before the season is over," the Sox pilot continued. "For a while I'll have to pick spots for them, and even then they're likely to get their ears pinned back occasionally, but I'm confident they'll all make the grade eventually."

In the course of the [illegible] Joe [illegible] but he plans to start [illegible] Will Marcum, Ostermueller and McKain on this trip.

Scotch Gold, in Opener, Ready for Easy Victory

By DAVE WILSON

"Selections for Fast Track"

BEST BETDOROTHY ROCK 5TH RACE

SUFFOLK DOWNS, May 18—Dorothy Rock, a hard-hitting filly from the Chicago stable of Mrs. Emil Denemark, is singled out as the most attractive hazard on tomorrow's bill.

Weighted out of the recently-run Commonwealth handicap, Dorothy gets into the Elks purse, a mile allowance number, under a postage stamp of only 103 pounds.

FIRST RACE

Scotch Gold, Crop, Mill Pond

SCOTCH GOLD has been thoroughly reconditioned since New Orleans and he comes strongly recommended by the clocker. On past performances, he is a standout. CROP has worked well and he looks next best on top races in Florida. MILL POND has turned in a pair of good efforts the current meeting.

SECOND RACE

Lady Hav, Questionable, Maelong

LADY HAV is favored by a weight shift of four pounds and should turn tables on QUESTIONABLE in this number. QUESTIONABLE finished a nose in advance of the top selection in the recent race won by Nikki B. MAELONG has good Florida dope and coule take it all if up to a race.

THIRD RACE

Spring Melody, Star Flower, Feedman

SPRING MELODY, a dead shot third to Purple Wrack in his seasonal debut, should improve sufficiently to head a field of this caliber. STAR FLOWER encountered no end of interference when beaten by the top selection in the above race. FEEDMAN figures well.

FOURTH RACE

Superwick, Marson, Porcellus

Although he finished fourth, SUPERWICK was beaten less than a half length for all the money in the recent race won by Yule Star. MARSON is dropping weight and gets a whole skyful of stars from from the speed chart experts. PORCELLUS, winner of two straight races, is a keen possibility despite moving up.

FIFTH RACE

Dorothy Rock, Aller Ego, WaWrlaine

If anything shows clean heels to DOROTHY ROCK it will probably be ALTER EGO. The latter cloued like a runaway express to win his seasonal debut, and thisincreased yardage should not harm his chances. WARLAINE was in more pockets than Brunswick and Balke could manufacture working in double shifts.

SIXTH RACE

Jezreel, Baby Way, John Werring

JEZREEL, third to Four Spot in most recent race, is encountering less capable opposition in the sixth race and needs only an equal shake in racing luck to score. BABY WAY is a five-star mudder and will be very dangerous in the event of rain. JOHN WERRING gets a good figure, but doubt if he can go the route.

SEVENTH RACE

Al Carlys, Blind Brook, Happy Flag

AL CARLYS won going away by five lengths in a recently run sprint and the additional yardage of this number should prove right down his alley. BLIND BROOK and HAPPY FLAG shap us as the main dangers. They rate as named.

EIGHTH RACE

Ballystratford, Poop Deck, Vitamin B

BALLYSTRATFORD is dropping pounds in actual weight off his recent second to Doctor C. N. and appears to have a royal chance of snating the lion's share of this pot. POOP DECK will be particularly dangerous in the event of mud. He beat Garden Message in similar going the other day. VITAMIN B has class enough.

SUBSTITUTE RACE

Fredrick, Believer, Brown Prodigy

FREDRICK, third to Miney Myerson in most recent race, is dropping away down. BELIEVER, second to Fair Time in last race, shapes up as the only danger. BROWN PRODIGY holds plenty of class, but he may need the race.

Name Contest for Swifty Closes at Midnight Tonight

$100 Cash, Three Pups Test Prizes

It's all over tonight.

At midnight the Swifty Contest closes. All mail received by the editor after that time will be rejected. You still have time to bring your letter in.

Somewhere in the big batch of mail ready to be opened by the editor and his assistants, is a new name for Wonderland's mechanical bunny. It used to be Swifty but when Wonderland opens the 1938 season on May 31, it will be something else.

The judges tomorrow, headed by Russell Murray, general manager of the Bay State Greyhound Association, which inaugurates the summer race meeting, will start pouring over the mail. All the names submitted will be given careful consideration and the essays on "Why I Love a Dog" scrutinized.

The names will first be considered for the $100 cash prize and the three Boston bull terrier puppies. In the case of ties the final decision will be made with the aid of the essays.

OPERATE ON BRICE

ORONO, Me., May 18 (AP)—Fred M. Brice, coach of the University of Maine football team, entered a Bangor hospital today to undergo an appendectomy.

W-h-o W-a-n-t-s M-e?

Russ Murray holds one of three Boston bull terrier pups which will be awarded Swifty contest winners. Do you want him? Then try your luck at renaming Swifty, Wonderland's mechanical rabbit. Entries close at midnight tonight.

Dashiell Hammett RETURNS!

The famous author of "The Thin Man" now brings you another great novel—an exciting story of a fortune in stolen bonds, a beautiful girl and an Oriental crook; surrounded by mystery and thrills.

Local Dogs To Race at Revere

There will be many Massachusetts owners listed at Wonderland Park this coming season . . . raising and buying of greyhounds seems to have become somewhat of a fad.

* * *

Mrs. George Richmond Fearing, well known society woman who resides at Westwood and the Back Bay and who has had some top dogs in the past two years, has several new pups which are said to be standouts . . . she feels as though she has potential "hot box" racers in Hash King, Escort Officer, Runanwin, Play Menace, Fox Hill Queen, and Androsay.

* * *

Mrs. Sarah Allan, wife of a Revere merchant, has been raising a few selected greyhounds for the past eighteen months and is going to race them for the first time this spring . . . Merton Ward, a Bevely florist, has purchased Smokey, well known at Revere last year and [illegible] newcomer in Dolly Green.

* * *

Charles M. Hall of Malden had a kennel racing at Sanford-Orlando all last winter and will present Gay Matron, Royal Matron, Squeeky Shoe and Dr. Mike to Wonderland fans. Robert Doane of Danvers has a pup named Dusty whom they say is really a "honey."

* * *

A newcomer to Revere this year will be Miss A. L. Martin of Roxbury, who has several pups to race . . . Allsteel is the one to watch . . . those who have seen the youngster claim he can't miss.

* * *

Turning from local owners to other subjects—Pete Fleming veteran chartmaker is back and ready to go . . . Hugh Bain should do every bit as good a job as Jack Fisher in the role of presiding steward . . . Our old friend Police Court, one of the greatest greyhounds in the history of racing will run again . . . the Dan Oswald veteran is now six years making him the oldest dog to ever run at Revere . . . the ideal racing age of greyhounds is two to three years old . . . after that they start on the downward trail.

Amor Brujo At Agawam

SPRINGFIELD, May 18—The finest thoroughbred which has stepped on the track at Agawam Park since the opening year will be unloaded after a trans-continental trip and given stable quarters here today.

His name is Amor Brujo, Chilean handicap star which was sold by H. A. Luro to Kozinsky brothers three months ago for $25,000.

Amor Brujo has had seven starts in the United States, of which he won two—the Thanksgiving Day Handicap, and the Half Moon Handicap—both of which were run at Tanforan, and he will make his Eastern debut at Agawam Park during the meeting which starts on May 28 and ends July 9.

N. L. Finds Dead Ball

The National Leaguers finally have found that new ball that was intended to help the pitchers so much this season.

The flingers had been getting their ears pinned back regularly, but the results of yesterday's games indicate the pitchers certainly had something. Maybe it was that helpful new ball.

Four games in the senior circuit produced the following: two one-hitters, one three and one four-hit hurling job, and some plain and fancy elbowing in the day's major contest, a 12-inning duel between the league leading New York Giants and the challenging Chicago Cubs.

Although six flingers saw service before Sambo Leslie's pinch single in the 12th gave the Giants a 6-5 triumph, still it was a well pitched game. The first inning produced most of the scoring as the Cubs smacked Cliff Melton for two runs and the Giants came back to drive Tex Carleton off the hill with none out and tally three times.

MOSTLY IN FIRST

Thereafter the silent man of the Giants avoided trouble except when Joe Marty parked a homer in the stands with two on base in the sixth and tied the score. Clay Bryant took Carleton's place and granted only six hits in 11 1-3 innings. Four were bunched for two runs in the fifth.

Melton tired and loaded the sacks with none out in the twelfth but Dick Coffman, peer of the relief pitchers, staged a successful rescue. Then the Giants went on to win when Bryant suddenly faded and let Mel Ott reach second on a pass and sacrifice.

Leslie, sent in to hit against Jack Russell, came through with the blow that scored Ott.

The one-hit pitching feats came from Russ Bauers of Pittsburgh, who lost to the Boston Bees, 1-0, and thereby qualified for the second rank of hard-luck guys, and Fiddler Bill McGee of the St. Louis Cardinals, who beat Brooklyn 2-1.

Goddy Rosen, who spoiled a no-hitter for Haj Schumacher earlier in the year, made the only Dodger hit off McGee and the usually reliable Joe Medwick was so surprised he let the ball roll past him and Rosen came home. McGee, who fanned nine, also made two of the Cards' hits off Luke Hamlin and figured in the scoring of both runs.

AMERICAN LEAGUE, TOO

Paul Derringer pitched Cincinnati's Reds to a 13-1 victory, limiting the Phillies to four blows while his mates collected 22, including a homer by Linus Frey.

The American League also got a share of the fine flinging in its only game as Cleveland's Earl Whitehill set the Athletics down with four blows and beat them, 5-1. He received the benefit of Hal Trosky's homer with one aboard and of the wildness of his mound rival, George Caster. Three other contests, New York-St. Louis, Boston-Chicago and Washington-Detroit, were rained out.

TECH FENCING CAPTAIN

Harry Isbenjian, '40, Kew Gardens, N. Y., has been chosen captain of the M. I. T. fencing team for the 1938-1939 season.

Crimson Sends 20 to 'Hep'

Captain Alex Northrop, Harvard's brilliant track leader, will head a list of 20 Crimson entrants who will compete in the fourth annual Heptagonal Meet next Saturday at Princeton.

As he is "hotter" now than ever before, the big Crimson miler should better his recently established Yale dual meet time of 4m. 18.2s. If conditions are favorable, he may well eclipse his best time in competition to date—namely the 4m. 17.6s. effort in the New England relays.

The following will make the trip to Princeton:

Pole vault, Wm. Pettingell, Marshall MacInnace; high jump, Bob Haydock, Guillaume Aertsen II; discus, John Herrick, George Downing; javelin, Bert Litman; hammer, Steve Brennan, Bill Shallow; shot, George Downing, Rowse Mendel; 880, Joe Bradley, John McClure; 120-yard high hurdles, Mason Fernald; 220-yard low hurdles, Mason Fernald, Jim Lightbody; mile, Captain Alex Northrop, Roswell Braxton, Gene Clark; one mile relay, Lightbody, Richards, King, Donnelly; two-mile, John Erhard.

Zanelli on With Kaplan

After two weeks of firing verbal shots at one another, Merry Mike Kaplan of Roxbury and Ralph the Ripper Zanelli of Providence will settle their dispute in the 10-round feature bout of the Goodwin A. C. boxing show Friday night, May 27, at the Boston Garden.

Thus the Goodwin A. C. comes up with the best "natural" in local boxing in months, one that may pull the cauliflower business out of its slump with a bang.

Mike Kaplan

It will be Kaplan's second venture as a welterweight. He'll probably weigh in at around 143 pounds.

Mike will make up for this poundage shortage with his scintillating agility and ring cleverness, and the rivals will be evenly matched.

Jane Dillard

Breaks 2 Records

AUSTIN, Tex., May 18 (AP)—Jane Dillard, a comely miss of 16 who has been swimming ever since she was old enough to toddle into the water, today laid claim to two unbelievable records.

On the theory four timers can't be wrong, Texas U's veteran coach, Tex Robertson, asked the National A. A. U. to approve her 1:14.8 for 100 yards and 1:23.2 for 100 meters as American women's breaststroke records.

Existing records are Katherine Rawls' 1:18.5 for 100 yards and Agnes Geraghty's 1:28.8 for 100 meters.

Robertson also has asked the A. A. U. to approve the 1:13.7 Miss Dillard recorded for 100 yards and :34.2 for 50 yards in the annual Texas beach and pool meet at Seguin last Saturday.

Tufts, Tech Cubs In Dual Meet

The Technology freshman track team, undefeated this season, faces the Tufts '41 trackmen in the concluding meet of the season today, at Tech Field.

John Nagle, Jr., of Brookline, recently chosen captain of the team, scored two firsts and a second against Brown Saturday. His specialty is the discus, but he competes in high jump and shot.

McKiernan Senators' Batting Ace

The usual mid-town let-down comes tonight in the Boston Park-WPA league, with the fast-going McDonoughs host to the Wilsons at Lee grounds, Southie, and the Holy Name A. A. traveling to Rogers Park, Brighton, to meet the Civics.

After a slow start, the McDonough Senators have tied the classy Mass. Knitting Mills, and have beaten the Casey club and Maddens in their last three games. McKiernan, catcher for the Peres last year, but now playing first base, has been the big thumper for the Southie crowd, who are pressing the Silk Sox for the leadership of the east division.

Joe Zapustas

Joe Zapustas, ex-Fordam all-around athlete, is holding down center field for the Senators, and is doing his bit to keep the club in the running.

The Country Club Pensions Custodian

Fred Porter, who was in charge of the locker building, has been pensioned by The Country Club.

During the Winter, Porter suffered an infection, which necessitated the removal of one eye. After the operation, he developed a heart ailment.

Advised of Porter's condition, The Country Club voted to pension him for his years of service.

Fred Porter will be missed by the T. C. C. members, not to mention the visiting golfers and scribes, who always received a most cordial reception when they journeyed to Clyde Park to play or cover matches.

8 European Champs In Chicago Tilt

CHICAGO, May 18 (AP)—Eight champions of Europe will crawl through the ropes in the Chicago Stadium tonight before a predicted sell-out crowd of 21,000 to face the Chicago golden gloves' titleholders in the seventh annual series of international bouts.

Six preliminary bouts between midwesterners were scheduled to raise the curtain on the international show.

Maxie Hailed AtCamp

SPECULATOR, N. Y., May 18 (AP)—Max Schmeling, who trained here last May for a fight that didn't take place, got down to work today to prepare himself for [illegible].

Scheduled to meet Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis in New York, June 22, Schmeling last roamed the Adirondack countryside while training for the "phantom fight" with ex-Champion James J. Braddock last spring.

FROM ALL SIDES

Then, only the smallest of crowds came to watch a fighter who had no one to fight. Today, however, it was different. After a "stirring" welcome when he left his train in Amsterdam, the Teuton found well-wishers on all sides.

"I'll beat that Louie again," he unwittingly told all comers as they sought to shake his hand en route to the 11-room hunting lodge he will share with Max Machon, his trainer, and Joe Jacobs, his American manager.

"You bet," agreed Jacobs, who called the Amsterdam reception of some 500 persons a "stirring welcome."

"But don't ask us to call the round. Rounds don't matter. It's just doing the job that counts—a job like Max did on Louie the last time."

Two years ago Max was the man who "saw sumthings" in Louis' defense and made it stick. He knocked the present champion out, exploded the Louis bomb and proved the Negro could be hit with a right hand.

NOT MUCH WORK

"And I still see it," the Teuton said as he unpacked his ring togs. "I'll beat him again, you bet."

Today, the challenger stepped into heavy walking shoes and headed for his favorite mountain trails. In addition to the phantom fighting, Schmeling trained here in 1932 for Mickey Walker. So he knows his way around.

"He'll spend a week running and walking in the mountains," Jacobs said. "Next Tuesday we're starting the ring work and we'll keep it up until two days before the fight.

"But it won't take too much work to get him ready," he added. "You know he's had three good tune-up fights for this and, with everything Max has to win, he'll be in the best possible shape."

Yawkey Stands Loss

The Red Sox lost $163,022 in 1937, according to the financial statement issued today for the year ending November 30, 1937.

While horse and dog racing and hockey in Boston are money-making sports, major league baseball is having a difficult time emerging from the "red." Balance sheet of the Boston American League Baseball Co. indicates that Tom Yawkey, Red Sox owner, was obliged last year to dig further into his capacious purse to maintain the organization. The statement as of November 30, 1937, shows a liability described as "advances by officer" amounting to $2,893,000. This is believed to represent money loaned the company by Yawkey and is $40,000 more than the same item as of November 30, 1936.

Profit and loss deficit of the company at November 30, 1937, stood at $967,582, compared with $804,560 a year earlier. Thus the indicated loss for the period was $163,022. The profit and loss deficit, incidentally, is, after deduction of a special surplus of $498,582, from which fact it is apparent that whatever the varying fortunes of the Red Sox team from a sports standpoint, from a financial standpoint it has been a decided flop.

However, at least the Red Sox are league leaders at the moment, and it is possible that owner Yawkey's strong faith in the organization will one day be rewarded.

Sox Stopped

Rained Out Again

CHICAGO, May 18—Boston pace setting Red Sox were forced into another day of idleness much against their wish when their second straight scheduled game with the White Sox was called off. Wet grounds was the reason.
